7 Die in Single-Car Crash at Redgranite

6 Teen-Agers Are Among Victims

REDGRANITE — Seven young persons were killed late Friday night in a crunching one-crash accident near here. The Wautoma County Sheriff's Department called it the "worst crash in the history of the county."

Dead were: David J. Oltesvig, 16, Redgranite, who had just completed his first day as a junior at Wautoma High School; William Thornton, 21, Redgranite, who was employed at a pickle company at Redgranite; James De Vargas, 18, Carlsbad, N. Mex., reportedly a student visiting in the area; And four teen-aged girls from Fond du Lac — Debra Irwin, 16, 270 N. National St., Jalayne M. Kroll, 14, 285 Gertrude Ave., Mary J. Friess, 15, 496 Allen St., and Katherine Kelly, 14, 271 Linden St.

All were pronounced dead at the scene about two miles north of Redgranite except Miss Friess, who was dead on arrival at the Berlin hospital.

The deaths zoomed Wisconsin's labor day weekend traffic count up quickly, and the list of victims is continuing to grow. The deaths, in addition to one in Waukesha County, sent the state total to 764 for 1970 road fatalities, compared with 746 a year ago.

Waukesha authorities had not learned yet this morning where the group was going or had been but they reported the auto driven by Oltesvig went out of control on County Trunk EE, hit a tree broadside, shearing off the right side of the vehicle and overturning.

The bodies of the Redgranite men and De Vargas were taken to Hempel Funeral Home at Redgranite and the other four to Uecker-Witt Funeral Home, Fond du Lac, where arrangements are pending. De Vargas' body will be returned to New Mexico.

In another crash, a Milwaukee woman was killed about 3 a.m. today in a collision on U.S. 16 near Pewaukee, Waukesha County.

Traffic accidents claimed 52 lives across the nation in the early hours of the three-day Labor Day weekend.

Fair and generally pleasant weather prevailed in most of the nation as the last long holiday of the summer began. Showers dampened parts of the Southwest and the Southeast, and there were traces of snow in high mountain areas of the West.

The counting period of traffic deaths began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and will end at midnight Monday.

All-Black Staff

Prison College Organized

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the number of black male college students reached 236,000 last fall, it had just begun to draw ahead of the last census tally of black male prisoners—227,000.

Concerned about prison manpower waste, Washington's Federal City College is running a freshman college program in the prison complex at nearby Lorton, Va.

The program is unique, says Dr. Stuart Adams, associate director of planning and research in Washington's Corrections Department, because it is all black, successful and dominated by the college staff.

The program boasts a parole violation rate of only 5 per cent. And 80 per cent of Lorton's college program parolees have stayed in college.

Dr. Andress Taylor, program director and associate dean of community education at the college, attributes much of the program's success to the caliber of the participants.

"Many of the best men in the community end up in jail, because the number of things a black man can do that are considered against the law are so great," Taylor said.

The 18-month-old program, called the Lorton Project, was organized by John A. Johnson, Lorton's superintendent of education and a 12-year veteran in penal education; Adams, formerly of the San Quentin prison college program, and Taylor who has been observing Muslim prisoner rehabilitation since 1958.

In an interview, Taylor suggested prison and army life can give young black men the discipline they sometimes-disorganized family life lack-

While developing technical skills, the 44 students now on parole also are involved in community problems through their own non-profit corporations, the Intensive Narcotics Group (ING) and the Committee for Rehabilitative Efforts Attained Through Education (CREATE). Their prime responsibility is helping other offenders.

Frank Macklin, 41, ING director who broke a 13-year drug habit in 1965, often gets young drug offenders into his program on probation, "even from the judge who gave me 19½ years for drug-related armed robbery."

Teen-age offenders tend now to identify most strongly with men in the Lorton prison, says Macklin. To the teenagers, the prisoners are the men who "made it," by stepping—however fleetingly—out of the cycle of ghetto poverty and joblessness.

May Help Extradition

Four Bomb Suspects Included in FBI List

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The FBI's highlight list of 10 most-wanted fugitives was expanded Friday night to include four young men wanted in the Aug. 24 bombing of a University of Wisconsin research center.

While a search for the quartet remained busiest in the north-eastern United States, Madison officials speculated the FBI's most-wanted designation would help with extradition of any of the suspects who might be found across the border in Canada.

The Wisconsin attorney general's office said the U.S. State Department was already discussing extradition preliminaries with Canadians, but wouldn't elaborate.

Warrants Issued

Karleton L. Armstrong, 22, of Madison; his brother, Dwight, 19, and two former UW students, Leo F. Burt, 22, and David S. Fine, 18, were named Wednesday in FBI warrants charging conspiracy, sabotage and destruction of government property.

The addition of their names to the FBI's Ten Most Wanted List expanded the roster to 14. The FBI said the list is held to 10 except in "extraordinary circumstances."

The Armstrong brothers are reported by investigators to have been admirers of Cuba's Fidel Castro. The FBI said Fine has been affiliated with the Students for a Democratic Society. Burt is a former member of UW's varsity crew rowing squad.

The Aug. 24 explosion shattered a six-story Army Mathematics Research Center at the university, killing a physics student who was working in a laboratory.

Jan. 1 Bombing The FBI said it also wants to question the four young men about an attempted bombing Jan. 1 at an Army ammunition plant at Baraboo northwest of Madison.

Sauk County authorities charged the elder Armstrong brother with unlawful possession of explosives concerning an attempted bombing in February at a power company substation which serves the Baraboo plant.

His teen-age brother, officials said, had done solo training flying in an airplane which was reported stolen shortly before the January attempt, and from which bottles containing nitrate explosives had been dropped on the ordnance plant.

Maxim Sliter, 60, identified as having been told of the Baraboo incident by the Armstrongs, was lodged in a Madison jail Friday after telling officials he does not want to testify before a U.S. District Court grand jury that is investigating the UW bombing.

U.S. Atty. John O. Olson said Sliter, brought to Madison from Minneapolis, "refused to appear voluntarily before the grand jury," and was held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

The grand jury's next session is scheduled Thursday. Sliter is named in a material witness warrant.

Marxist Socialist Probably Will be Next Chilean Leader

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The voters have picked a Marxist socialist to be Chile's next president, but it is up to Congress to confirm or reject their choice.

The government announced early today that Sen. Salvador

Allende had defeated former President Jorge Alessandri, a conservative, and Radomiro Tomic, a moderate leftist, in the nation's presidential election.

But Allende got only 36.3 per cent of the 2,936,743 votes cast, edging out Alessandri by 39,338 votes.

Under Chilean law, a presidential candidate must receive more than 50 per cent of the votes cast to win an election outright. Otherwise, Congress must decide between the two leading candidates.

Congress has always picked the top vote-getter in the past but is under no legal obligation to do so. It will meet Oct. 20 to make its choice.

The leftist coalition led by Allende has 83 of the 200 seats in Congress. Tomic's party has 74, and Alessandri's supporters have 43. A linkup between the Tomic and Alessandri forces is considered unlikely.

Final election figures showed Allende with 1,075,616 votes to 824,849 for Tomic. This gave Allende 36.3 per cent of the vote, Alessandri 34.9 per cent, and Tomic 27.8 per cent.

If Congress goes along with the choice of the voters as expected, Chile will have the first freely elected Communist and Socialist-backed government in Latin America. Chile's neighbors—Argentina, Bolivia and Peru—are military dictatorships.

Allende, a 62-year-old former physician and three-time loser in previous presidential elections, has promised Chile a non-Marxist government but "one that will open the way for Socialism."

He has pledged to nationalize the banks, achieve full agrarian reform, and nationalize the U.S.-operated copper industry. Tomic has also said he favors nationalization of the copper industry and has blamed "anti-quated and restrictive capitalist and neocapitalist systems" for Chile's economic problems.

Alessandri, 72, who was president from 1958 to 1964, ran as an independent on a platform of law and order and free enterprise.

Tomic, like outgoing President Eduardo Frei, is a Christian Democrat. Frei, prohibited by law from running for a second six-year term, did not actively campaign for Tomic but publicly declared that he supported him. It was Alessandri, however, who was favored in most pre-election polls.

The election was the closest and one of the most violent in Chile this century. Five persons were killed and 200 injured in disturbances and political feuds during the eight-month campaign.

Israel Charges Egypt Building Missile Sites

Violations to U.N. 10th Complaint Of Cease-Fire

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Israel charged today that Egypt is building new missile sites within 19 miles of the Suez Canal despite U.S. approaches.

Final election figures showed Allende with 1,075,616 votes to 824,849 for Tomic. This gave Allende 36.3 per cent of the vote, Alessandri 34.9 per cent, and Tomic 27.8 per cent.

Israel made its charge in its 10th complaint of Egyptian cease-fire violations to the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization in Jerusalem.

An Israeli statement in Tel Aviv said that "information that came to the knowledge of the Israeli defense forces indicates that building work and other preparations are being carried out at new sites earmarked for ground to air missiles in an area extending west of the Suez Canal and within a range of 19 miles from it."

The cease-fire agreement and standstill of Aug. 7 forbids construction of new military installations on either side of the waterway to a depth of 30 miles. Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said earlier in the day that Israel must continue to participate in Mideast peace talks while maintaining a "military alternative."

The United States can make it possible, he said in Jerusalem by forbidding Egyptian encroachment on the Suez Canal cease-fire zone and removing anti-aircraft missiles it reportedly has placed there.

In Cairo, the Egyptian Foreign Ministry claimed Friday a U.S. charge that Cairo violated the cease-fire by setting up the missile sites is "absolutely far from the truth."

Dayan, in an interview on Israel's state radio, said Israel "must not be in a position where we should have to fight with our backs to the wall in order to hold the lines we have been holding very successfully for the past three years."

If Washington is unable to remove the missiles, he said, Israel should be released from the truce agreement.

The Egyptian statement complained that "while the United States succumbed to Israeli pressure, it has taken no action on Egyptian countercharges of Israeli violations."

Blast Rocks Tate Trial Justice Hall

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles County Hall of Justice, site of the Sharon Tate murder trial, was rocked by a bomb explosion on its sixth floor today shortly after midnight.

The blast blew out a wall and broke a six-inch water main, but caused no injuries, sheriff's deputies said.

The bomb exploded in a restroom adjacent to the district attorney's office, deputies said. Water from the broken main caused an ankle-deep flood on floors one through six, but caused no damage to official court records housed in the 14-story building, Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger told a news conference.

The blast was "barely felt" in the upper portions of the building, including the 10th through 14th floor jail complex that houses some 2,800 prisoners including Charles M. Manson, deputies said.

Nader Says GM Officials Lied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer crusader Ralph Nader, whose attacks on Corvair automobiles contributed to discontinuance of the compact, has resumed his campaign, this time accusing General Motors' top officials of lying in congressional and court proceedings over the cars.

General Motors denied Nader's charges Friday and reaffirmed that Corvairs are safe.

Nader contended in a letter to Transportation Secretary John Volpe that GM's own tests, conducted in 1962, showed the million-plus Corvairs produced in 1960 through 1963 were liable to overturn at speeds of from 26 to 30 miles per hour.

Despite the tests, said Nader, GM Board Chairman James M. Roche and President Edward Cole repeatedly "stated what GM's own tests said was not so about the vehicle's handling."

Ah, That's Good stuff, Lion cub Tanya is thinking as she is bottle fed by airline hostess Christine Sanford at Miami, Fla., before starting a flight to Africa. Nader Says GM Officials Lied

"GM manufactured and maintained a massive lie," said Nader in urging Volpe to require reply to Secretary Volpe.

A GM spokesman said the what Nader called safety defects immediately on whether the ham Ribicoff, D-Conn., whose Senate subcommittee held auto firm also could not confirm or deny immediately Nader's estimate that 600,000 of the 1960-1963 Corvairs are still on the road.

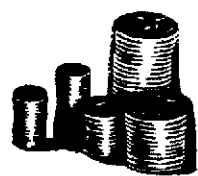

Aides of Sen. Ribicoff said a response to Nader's request for a reopening of the hearings will have to await a review of the models of the Corvair, which Department declined extensive comment until the charges can be reviewed.

A spokesman for the department's National Highway Safety Bureau, however, did deny Nader's contention that the agency has held up proceedings against Corvair pending the outcome of civil court cases.

Police & Fire Beat

Further court proceedings in the case of Daniel J. Weill, 18, Green Bay, will be taken up Tuesday. Weill, who is charged with obstructing Appleton police, was given the time by Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer so he may confer with an attorney.

Weill allegedly gave a false first name to a patrolman Aug. 25 while his driver's license was being checked at the intersection of Wisconsin Avenue and Oneida Street. A traffic charge of no valid driver's license was brought as a result of the incident.

Fines of $50 and costs were levied Friday morning against two boys charged with loitering by Appleton police. Scott Sievers, 17, of 1406 W. Winnebago St., and James Franz, 16, 2301 N. Clark St., both pleaded guilty before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer.

The pair, whose cases were previously waived from Juvenile Court, reportedly refused to comply with police when asked several times to move from in front of buildings in the 800 block of W. College Avenue.

Reportedly tossing a strawberry sundae into the face of an employee at a north side drive-in July 28 brought Dale Reh, 17, 603 N. Appleton St., into court Friday on a charge of disorderly conduct. Reh, whose case was waived from Juvenile Court, pleaded innocent before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer. He will have a Sept. 10 trial before County Judge Gustave J. Keller. Appleton detectives allege she gave the liquor to a 14-year-old girl Aug. 13, and two other girls, 11 and 12, on Aug. 17. She pleaded innocent to charges in County Court Branch 2.

A fine of $100 and costs was levied Friday against Richard Rose, 44, 1212 Oakridge Ave., Kaukauna, on a charge of disorderly conduct. He pleaded guilty to the count in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 before County Judge Nick F. Schaefer.

A Sept. 23 trial for Janet Frank, 18, of 510 W. Fourth St., Kaukauna, was set Friday by Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer. She allegedly furnished liquor to a 15-year-old girl and a 17-year-old boy Aug. 26 in Kaukauna. Schaefer scheduled the trial before County Judge Gustave J. Keller, after Miss Frank pleaded innocent. She is free on a $125 signature bond. Charges were filed by county sheriff's investigators.

Edward Snider, 22, 3800 E. Broadway Drive, pleaded innocent Friday to a charge of disorderly conduct. He allegedly touched a Kaukauna woman in the elevator of a downtown Appleton parking ramp on Aug. 18. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer scheduled a jury trial for Sept. 16, and set bail at $50.

Possessing beer off licensed premises and fleeing from an Appleton policeman at the same time brought a total fine of $75 and costs Thursday for David J. Van Daalwyk, 18, of 614 W. Sixth St. He was found guilty after a trial.

Police brought the counts on May 27, after observing the youth in the 500 block of S. W. Alley at 12:35 a.m. Further, Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer suspended his driver's license for 60 days.

Thomas Van Denzen, 24, was fined $100 and costs, or 40 days in the Outagamie County jail, Thursday after County Judge Gustave J. Keller found him guilty of giving beer to four minor girls at an Appleton home July 3. Van Denzen lives at 327 1/2 W. Wisconsin Ave.

Disposition in the battery case of Tim McGinnis, 19, 705 N. Appleton St., is being withheld pending an Oct. 13 review of his behavior. His wife named him in the May 23 complaint, after he allegedly struck her and loosened a tooth. He remains free on a $50 signature bond.

The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad took Ronald Coffey, 28, 1224 1/2 S. Walnut St., to St. Elizabeth Hospital Thursday afternoon when he became ill at home.

Three guns are missing from the apartment of Ronald Lueck, 608 N. Division St., Appleton police learned late Thursday night. They said entry to the room was made by prying open a door with a screwdriver. Lueck said the weapons, a 30.06 rifle, 12 gauge shotgun and .22 caliber single shot, must have been taken while he was out between 6:30 and 10:30 p.m.

The rescue unit of the Appleton Fire Department late Thursday morning took Martin Lueders, 59, 508 W. Parkway Blvd., to Appleton Memorial Hospital when he showed symptoms of a stroke.

The theft of a bottle of cologne Aug. 29 from Walgreen's, 210 W. College Ave., brought a fine of $50 and costs Friday for Sandra J. Diekvoos, 20, of 936 Tayco St., Menasha. She pleaded guilty before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer in County Court Branch 2.

A year's probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services was ordered Friday for Donald VerVoort, 21, 1755 N. Mason St., who pleaded guilty to two thefts. He appeared Friday before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer.

VerVoort took three items of clothing from the washlines of two Appleton women Aug. 26. Schaefer made disposition in the case on the recommendation of an agent from the probation department.

On Oct. 1, Thomas J. Jelly, 27, 624 First St., Menasha, will stand trial before Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller. He pleaded innocent Friday to a charge of disorderly conduct.

Kelly is named in the count by his estranged wife, whom he reportedly dragged to his auto Aug. 30, after forcibly entering the dwelling of an Appleton woman where she lives. County Judge Nick F. Schaefer set Kelly free on a $100 signature bond.

Harold E. Keough, 49, 162 Water St., Neenah, who was charged with absconding from three Appleton area motels last April and May, saw those charges dropped Friday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 after making restitution.

The charges stemmed from allegations that Keough failed to pay a $296.36 bill at the El Rancho Motel, two bills totaling $31.65 at the Conway Motor Inn, and a $25 bill at the Tower Motel.

County Judge Nick F. Schaefer said that a trial, set for Sept. 23 previously on all the charges, will remain to hear a count of no valid driver's license. Bail of $50 was set on the traffic charge.

Tom Oudenhoven, 19, route 2, West De Pere, will reappear in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Sept. 11 on a charge of disorderly conduct. The charge was brought by a county sheriff's investigator who said Oudenhoven smashed the windshield of an auto at his home on Aug. 30 with several companions, and then used abusive language in a heated exchange with his parents.

County Judge Nick F. Schaefer said he would reserve final disposition for Sept. 11, after reviewing Oudenhoven's behavior to that time. He freed the youth without bond.

Mrs. Joyce Powers, 31, route 1, Appleton, was found innocent Thursday of a disorderly conduct count by Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller, after trial. The charge was brought July 31 by a Greenville woman after an incident in which the woman alleged Mrs. Powers shouted at her son.

THE AGES ON BRIDGE

by IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

If ever you want to make a friend of the bridge expert, arrange things so he will overhear you in a casual conversation with some other players. Say something like, "What a declarer! I hate to defend against him. He always seems to know where all the cards are!"

Reference to the expert's extraordinary powers of perception will never fail to trigger a favorable response. Maybe it serves to help him forget some of those mis-guessed queens of the past year.

Why is the expert so much more proficient than the average player in this regard? Believe it or not, 75 per cent or more of these special insights are very simple to explain and within every player's potential.

The expert makes it a point to remember the bidding of each hand and makes continuous reference to it to guide him in his play. The average player tends to treat the bidding and the play as two separate unrelated events.

The bidding was straightforward. West had a reasonable takeout double of the opening one-spade bid. North described his holding properly by first redoubling and then supporting spades. South needed no further encouragement to contract for game. (His hand was valued at 16 points and his partner's bidding showed approximately 10 points.)

South could see that he was going to lose two heart tricks and one or two club tricks. Since West's takeout double marked him with the club king, something other than finesse in that suit would be necessary. Some way must be found to force West into making an advantageous lead at some stage of the play.

South decided he could manage this by an "elimination play." His plan was to remove all safe leads from the West hand and then put West on play for either a forced club return or a ruff and discard.

West played the ace and king of hearts and then switched to a trump. South won the trump lead in his hand and played ace, king and ruffed a diamond.

South then ruffed his last heart in dummy and played the spade ace. He now led the last diamond from dummy and, when East showed out, he simply discarded his losing club. West was now on lead with only clubs left and had to concede the last two tricks to South's A-Q.

Knowing where the cards are is the first step to success.

Q: Is it true that Dick Cavett was born within a few miles of Johnny Carson and attended the same school? — Cathy Walser, Tucson, Ariz.

A: The two TV talkers were both born in the Midwest — Johnny in Corning, Ia., and Dick in Gibbon, Neb., miles and a decade apart. Dick attended Yale Drama School, while Johnny won his degree at the University of Nebraska where he wrote for the Awgwan and did magic billed as "The Great Carsoni." Cavett was once a gagwriter for Johnny.

Q: When Prince Charles visited our country recently, he asked why we selected the eagle as our national bird. Nobody seemed to know. Can you find out? — Mrs. Horace C. Cross, Newport News, Va.

A: The Great Seal of the U.S., designed around the bald eagle flapping its wings, was adopted in 1782 by the Continental Congress and in 1789 by the Federal government. Created by William Barton and Secretary of Congress Charles Thomson. The eagle as an emblem of sovereignty goes back to the ancient Romans and Byzantines. American Indians used the eagle to signify speed and wisdom. The Hessian soldiers, paid to fight us during the Revolution, bore it as an armorial device in the Battle of Trenton (1776). Washington's "Life Guard" (equivalent of today's Secret Service bodyguard) also flaunted the bird as an armorial decoration.

Q: I saw a nothing movie the other night called "Poor White Trash," and in the back of my mind I thought I saw it years ago under another title. Could this be possible? — Mrs. Helen R., Peoria, Ill.

A: You certainly have a good memory for trashy pictures. This strip of celluloid was released in 1957 under the title "Bayou." It was so inane that confere Herb Kelly described it as "something Tennessee Williams might have written when he was 7 years old." However, it had one distinction. It served to introduce Peter ("Mission: Impossible") Graves to moviegoers.

Q: I've heard that Sophia Loren Ponti's son, still a toddler, is being taught English, French, and Italian. Why? — Mrs. Laverne B., Cleveland.

A: "When I made my first film in Hollywood," explains Mama Sophia, "I had so much trouble with English. It made me nervous. I don't want my baby to grow up facing a similar problem; I want him to grow up able to communicate with people in other countries."

Q: My husband claims he once saw Zsa Zsa, Eva, and Magda Gabor work together in a nightclub. I insist they never did a sister act. Who's right? — Mrs. Rita MacL., Long Island City, N.Y.

A: He is. The three Gabor sisters worked together the day after Christmas, 1953. At the Last Frontier in Las Vegas. What made more news than the act, however, was the lovers' quarrel between Zsa and Rubirosa, ending, as she recalls, by "Rubirosa striking me. I fell sharply against the bathroom door, which was ajar, hitting it with my forehead." First aid couldn't prevent the right eye from turning black, but the trio opened anyway with Zsa Zsa wearing a patch over the shiner. When a newspaper reversed the photo, which then showed the actress wearing the patch over her left eye, the columnists next day branded the brawl a phony. Especially when followed by a n o t h e r headline screaming: "Barbara Hutton Marries Rubirosa."

Comedy for Teen-agers, Their Moms

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — "Holloway's Daughter" on Comedy Theatre is a homey little comedy aimed to catch the fancy of teen-aged girls and their indulgent moms. It's all terribly cute and coy, with Robert Young as a 70-year-old who reluctantly turns over his private detective agency to his loose-jointed son, David Wayne.

7:30-8 Channel 5 — Adam-12 has another "ordinary" day in the life of two typical big city cops. During the course of it, they pursue a father who has kidnapped his son from his estranged wife, capture a pair of truck hijackers and have a shoot out with an escaped convict holed up in a public bus.

7:30-8 Channels 2-7 — It looks like Medical Center on My Three Sons as the Douglas family proves the adage that it never rains but it pours. Dodie, Steve and the triplets are all in need of medical care (R)

8-8:30 Channel 2-7 — Lisa and Oliver get back into "show biz" on Green Acres, doing their thing with a story on a '20s superwoman and his movie star spouse. (R)

8:30-9:30 Channel 11-9 — Tony

Kids From Wisconsin Steal Lombardo Show

Teen-Agers Appear With Bandleader At Jones Beach Oceanside Stadium

BY HOWARD ANGIOLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixty-two kids from Wisconsin came to New York this week and demonstrated their musical performing savvy by stealing an audience from Guy Lombardo.

"The Kids from Wisconsin," the name for the group of teen-age performers sponsored by the Wisconsin Exposition Center, had come to record highlights of the repertory they had developed since coming together for a summer camp-style music program in mid-June.

Band leader Lombardo invited the boys-and-girls troupe to Jones Beach, where he is the producer of a "Sound of Music" revival staged summer nights at the oceanside outdoor stadium.

Afterwards, he invited them to do "about 20 minutes" of their act in the adjacent tent, where ticketholders are invited free for an hour of Lombardo music for dancing.

Urged on by calls of "More, More!" from the standing-room crowd and an invitation from Lombardo, the group performed more than an hour, and Lombardo's men never did get to their bandstand.

The teen-age band members and the chorus of singers and dancers, all clad in mustard-gold blazers and radiating a wholesomeness that charmed the audience, continued with a program that included popular and show tunes, a Charleston production, and a melange of patriotic and peace songs.

"Guy told me, 'I don't want to go on that stage now, you just round out the hour,'" Vernon G. Wendland said Wednesday in talking of his charaxes' success.

Wendland, administrator of the Wisconsin Exposition Center, in West Allis, outside Milwaukee, said auditions for this summer's troupe attracted 300 in the eligible 16-19 age range.

12-Hours-a-Day

In June, the winners began a 9 a.m.-to-9 p.m. regimen at the fairgrounds under Mark Azzolina, a former Air Force lieutenant colonel and leader of the NORAD Commanders orchestra, aided by a choral director, a choreographer and an orchestra.

Their bookings this year have included the state fair and numerous smaller fairs in Wisconsin, and the Canadian National Exposition in Toronto.

Woehler Rejects Open-Door Policy

Outagamie County's "moratorium" on closed door meetings lasted one day. It ended Friday afternoon in the office of County Administrator Alvin E. Woehler.

As an aftermath of debate that resulted from executive (closed) meetings held in past weeks by the county's Board of Social Services, Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt told the Executive Committee Thursday that secret sessions should be "reserved for only very serious situations."

And he was quick to add that in his 17 years on the County Board, he had rarely seen such an emergency situation.

Ten members of the Executive Committee heard DeLaHunt suggest that the press be allowed to stay in committee meetings and then use its own discretion on what it publishes.

Woehler was sitting next to DeLaHunt at the Executive Committee meeting when the suggestion was made. There was no discussion, nor was there an objection raised.

Failed to Post

The board's Personnel Committee, headed by Supv. Marvin Babbitt of Seymour, met Friday afternoon in Woehler's office. As in the past, the committee failed to post a notice of the meeting in the county clerk's office. Other board committees instituted a policy of posting meeting notices several months ago.

Before the meeting started, Woehler told two reporters, Bill Knutson of The Post-Crescent and James Bethke of radio station WHBY, that he disagreed with DeLaHunt's views on allowing press coverage of committee meetings.

Woehler was particularly adamant in his stand on coverage of Personnel Committee sessions, which he said must often be closed to allow for "a full and open discussion."

Although Woehler and Babbitt stated that Friday's meeting was called solely to discuss labor negotiations with Outagamie County Hospital personnel, it was soon learned that Sheriff Calvin L. Spice had submitted a letter to the committee in which he had requested more help in his department.

Woehler held that while the reporters could hear the letter read, they could not sit in on the discussion on hiring more help because that discussion might involve personalities in the sheriff's department.

"Half the Trouble"

When told that reporters are allowed to remain in Courts and Justice Committee meetings while department policies and personnel are being discussed, Woehler replied, "that's half the trouble with that committee."

Bethke informed Woehler that reporters are allowed to be present most of the time when Appleton City Council committees discuss personnel and related items, and Bethke contended that had not caused problems.

"I thought this whole thing was settled Thursday," Bethke told Woehler, referring to DeLaHunt's statement to the Executive Committee.

Bethke reminded Woehler that he had raised no objections at the Executive Committee meeting.

At one point during a sometimes heated exchange that involved the two reporters, Woehler and Babbitt, Woehler remarked, "You'll be hearing more from the administrator."

Although the intent of his remark was unclear to reporters, he had earlier made reference to DeLaHunt's questioning of Woehler's power to appoint a new corporation counsel to replace Frank Templeton, who resigned as of Oct. 1. The county has asked for a legal opinion on the matter from the state attorney general's office.

"Uncompromising"

Woehler indicated he was "uncompromising" in his views

on open and closed meetings.

DeLaHunt was not at the Personnel Committee session, nor was he available for comment afterward.

Two other Personnel Committee members, George Kroes of the Town of Vanden Broek and Sylvester Lenz of Kimberly, remained silent during Friday's pre-meeting discussion.

After the meeting started, Woehler read Spice's letter requesting more manpower and the committee set Sept. 15 for a meeting to discuss the requests with him.

Babbitt then told the two reporters they would have to leave because the committee was about to discuss hospital union negotiations.

A reporter informed Babbitt that there was a proper method of entering into executive session. A motion then was made and seconded, a vote was taken and a statement was made as to why the closed session was being called.

Clintonville Service

Water Utility Rate Increases Go Into Effect

CLINTONVILLE — The 25 per cent increase in general service rates approved Aug. 31 by the Public Service Commission (PSC) will go into effect immediately, according to John Schroeder, office superintendent.

For most homes in the city, the rate change will amount to an increase of 40 cents per quarter service charge and an increase of 9 to 34 cents per 1,000 gallons of water.

The city's water utility's application to raise water rates was made to the PSC last May 14, after approval by the City Council. The utility had experienced a net operating loss of $344 in 1969. The water utility rates for the city were last revised in 1958.

Two-inch, $11; three-inch, $20; four-inch, $30; six-inch, $45; and eight-inch, $80.

Schroeder explained that the bills for water service to customers located outside the city limits will be computed on the general service charge schedule in addition to a 25 per cent surcharge as in the past.

Appearing at the PSC hearing in Madison on June 16 with Schroeder was Kermit L. Lyon, superintendent of the water department.

With the rate increase, the utility's gross revenues are expected to provide an additional $18,392, of which $11,873 will be from general service sales and $6,519 from public fire protection service.

Approximately 95 per cent of the homes in the city are served by ¾-inch meters which will mean an increase from $1.50 to $2 on their quarterly service charge," Schroeder explained. "A few have the ¾-inch meters which means a raise of 50 cents to $3."

Only two increases were made in the larger meters used by business and industry. The one-inch quarterly meter charge was increased 50 cents to $4 and the 1½-inch, 40 cents to $7.40.

After the accident, Miller was taken to Tigerton, then transferred to Green Bay. He entered the Army Feb. 20 and was stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky.

The other service charge rates to remain the same are 1½-inch, $10; two-inch, $16; three-inch, $30; four-inch, $50; and six-inch, $100.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller, route 1, Tigerton; five brothers and three sisters.

Also approved were output charges of 34 cents per 1,000 gallons for the first 20,000 gallons used each quarter and 22 cents per 1,000 gallons for the next 180,000 used each quarter. Previously, the rate was 25 cents per 1,000 gallons for the first 10,000 gallons and 18 cents for the next 190,000 gallons.

Visitation will be from 10 a.m. Monday until the funeral services at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Heuer, Sievers and McFarren Funeral Home, Tigerton.

The utility's other increase in revenue will be collected for public fire protection service. The present annual charge of $14,481 will be raised to $21,000 for use of facilities in place next Dec. 31. After that date, the base annual charge will be increased by $18 for each hydrant added to the system and by 10 cents per lineal foot of main.

Military funeral services will be conducted. A chaplain from Ft. Sheridan, Ill., will officiate. Burial will be in Union Cemetery, Tigerton.

Meter When Possible

The PSC ruled that water supplied to the city for flushing sewers, street sprinkling, flooding rinks and pools, filling rank trucks or other intermittent use shall be metered when possible. Where it is impractical to meter, the superintendent must estimate the number of gallons used and bill the proper city department at the rate of 16 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Sales Tax Causes State Fund Surplus

MADISON (AP) — State sales taxes, increased and expanded in a controversial move by the legislature a year ago, produced about 15 per cent more revenue in their initial fiscal trial than had been expected.

James R. Morgan, secretary of revenue, disclosed Friday that the 4 per cent levy ended its fiscal year June 30 with $272.5 million in revenue, or about $34.9 million more than had been forecast in May, 1969.

The legislature's Democratic minority had balked at endorsing the Republican-controlled legislature's decision to raise sales taxes rather than increase state income and corporation taxes.

The increase from 3 per cent to 4 per cent also included an expansion of the taxable list so that many traditionally tax-free items on grocery shelves suddenly joined the levy roster.

Morgan said personal income taxes were $28 million greater than in the 1968-69 period, an increase of about 6 per cent but about $20 million less than had been estimated.

Total state tax collections increased $19.5 million over the estimates for the 1969-70 fiscal period, which represents the first half of a two-year state budget.

Total revenue collected in the 1969-70 fiscal period was $1.1 billion, including about $388 million which is being returned to local governments in the form of shared taxes and property tax relief.

Democrats declared more than a year ago that, because of the decision of the Republican-dominated legislature, they would make taxes a big campaign issue in 1970.

They were following the promise Friday.

Shirley Walker, seeking the Democratic nomination for state treasurer in Tuesday's primary, demanded abolition of the sales tax.

In a statement Friday, the West Allis housewife and accountant said the "sales tax has hit hard at those least able to pay. We must work to abolish the sales tax, and tax people on their ability to pay."

"If we elect Republicans to our state and legislative offices, we will see taxes like we never have seen before," Mrs. Walker said.

Charge by Lucey

Patrick J. Lucey, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, accused Republicans of shifting financial burdens onto city and county taxpayers.

Speaking to a labor union meeting in Eau Claire, Lucey said "the Republican administration has failed to meet the full cost of state services."

"As a result, these costs have been shifted to the local communities which are forced to rely on the property tax," Lucey said.

Wisconsin property taxes have increased about 10 per cent in the last year, he said.

Morgan said the state's estimate of sales tax income fell short because of his department's "lack of experience" with the legislature's new style of general sales tax.

The 6 per cent increase in income tax revenue is lower than in previous years. The increase was 13 per cent and 10.5 per cent in two previous fiscal years.

Two Appleton supervisors have submitted a resolution calling for construction of a new courthouse at the Outagamie County farm site and sale of the present courthouse to Appleton.

The resolution, which will come before the County Board next Wednesday, was signed by Supervisors John R. Schreiter and his sister, Barbara A. Steger.

County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt said he first became aware of the resolution Friday.

The board's Special Building Committee Thursday night approved the purchase of six lots, at a cost of $94,500, to be used for off street parking for the new safety building which, in accordance with board action last month, will be built on the east side of the courthouse.

Neither Schreiter or Mrs. Steger could be reached Friday for comment on whether Thursday night's safety building committee action would influence their resolution.

The two supervisors asked that the safety building resolution passed last month be rescinded and that their resolution be considered.

However, DeLaHunt, citing Roberts Rules of Order, contended that since notice of the rescinding request was not given at the August County Board meeting, last month's resolution can be rescinded only by a two-thirds vote of supervisors.

Schreiter and Mrs. Steger, in their resolution, contend that the present location of the courthouse complex does not lend itself to future expansion of facilities necessary to keep pace with what they say is the county's increasingly important role in regional government affairs.

They stated that the county farm site has "unlimited potential for future comprehensive administrative and or service growth patterns," and they contend that Appleton has shown "genuine interest" in purchasing the existing courthouse "to satisfy their long range requirements of a city hall, police station, and other ad-

WACOG to Hear Sanitation Reports

KING — The services necessary to establish a sanitary district in the Chain O' Lakes area from an engineer's point of view will be in the spotlight at the next meeting of the Waupaca Area Council of Governments.

Dale D. Rice, partner and engineer, Rice & Urban Ltd., Appleton, will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Grand Army Home for Veterans.

"We feel confident that this will be a meaningful meeting," Walter Ciura, WACOG president said. Besides Rice, Eugene planner for the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, who has been surveying existing sanitary facilities, also will report.

Ciura said WACOG has invited proper committeemen of the Chain O' Lakes Property Owners Association and the Booster Club to attend the meeting.

meeting the council will get its first glimpse of what NEWRPC has done to date in surveying the water and sanitary facilities.

During the year the council had also had speakers at its meetings to talk about low cost housing, solid waste disposal, pure water and means of financing WACOG projects as plans are approved and projects begin.

The Chain O' Lakes Property Owners Association, which has been embroiled in the fight for pure water on the chain and preserving the natural beauty of the area, announced at its annual meeting in August that a committee would be formed in the association to outline the legal steps which must be taken to form a sanitary district.

Public Invited

"The public is invited and I urge them to attend," Ciura said. "This meeting will be of interest to everyone and it can mean action, if everyone makes a sincere effort to understand the problems, proposed solutions and the need for change."

WACOG, which will be one year old next month, includes the Towns of Dayton, Farmington, Lind, Waupaca and the City of Waupaca. In February of this year the council voted to engage Northeastern to develop a comprehensive plan for the area.

Another Courthouse Plan

Two Appleton supervisors have submitted a resolution calling for construction of a new courthouse at the Outagamie County farm site and sale of the present courthouse to Appleton.

The resolution, which will come before the County Board next Wednesday, was signed by Supervisors John R. Schreiter and his sister, Barbara A. Steger.

County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt said he first became aware of the resolution Friday.

The board's Special Building Committee Thursday night approved the purchase of six lots, at a cost of $94,500, to be used for off street parking for the new safety building which, in accordance with board action last month, will be built on the east side of the courthouse.

Neither Schreiter or Mrs. Steger could be reached Friday for comment on whether Thursday night's safety building committee action would influence their resolution.

The two supervisors asked that the safety building resolution passed last month be rescinded and that their resolution be considered.

However, DeLaHunt, citing Roberts Rules of Order, contended that since notice of the rescinding request was not given at the August County Board meeting, last month's resolution can be rescinded only by a two-thirds vote of supervisors.

Schreiter and Mrs. Steger, in their resolution, contend that the present location of the courthouse complex does not lend itself to future expansion of facilities necessary to keep pace with what they say is the county's increasingly important role in regional government affairs.

'Old Home Week' Chilton Family Reunion

CHILTON — It was old home week for the Nyles Papendieck family, 306 Park St., when three of their boys came home this week from as many corners of the globe.

Jeff, a student at Oshkosh State University, returned from a year's study at Fourah Bay College of the University of Sierra Leone in western Africa.

He was one of several students from OSU to participate in the program. He enrolled for his courses at the college through OSU and studied and lived with the African students for the academic year.

The British school system was quite a bit different than what Jeff had been used to, he said. He enjoyed the extended periods between semesters and traveled to other parts of Africa at those times.

Chili Powder

"The people accepted us better if we adopted their ways of living," Jeff said, "especially eating." He mentioned eating much rice and cereals and some highly seasoned foods. "I can eat spoonfuls of chili powder and not blink an eyelash," he boasted.

He hitchhiked through Europe after his studies were completed at Fourah Bay College.

Steve, an older son, is home on a short leave prior to returning to Vietnam for a second tour of duty there with the U.S. Marine Corps.

AFS Returnee

Steve brought his Scottish fiancée, Ronnie McCormack, home with him. A secretary in a medical clinic in California, Miss McCormack has been in the United States only two years.

Brown County Home Burned

Firemen Unable To Save House About Midnight

The home of a rural Brown County man was gutted by fire early today by a blaze which apparently started near a down stairs stove.

Assistant Fire Chief Lloyd Hughes of the Town of Lawrence Fire Department described the home of Victor Frelich, route 1, West De Pere, as a "total loss."

He said the department found the structure engulfed in flames when it arrived shortly after midnight. The alarm was turned into them by the Freedom Fire Department in Outagamie County, he said, mistakenly called by a neighbor of Frelich's.

The Lawrence units reportedly remained at the scene until about 5:30 a.m. today. They were assisted by fire fighters from the Freedom fire department. The house is located just across the Outagamie-Brown County line.

K-C Settles Move Into New Offices

NEENAH — Kimberly-Clark Corporation Friday said the move of its Consumer and Service Products Divisions from the company's main office in the Town of Menasha to the former American Can Company general office building in Neenah will be completed this month.

Kimberly-Clark last year acquired the 92,000 square foot Marathon Avenue office complex and since has remodeled the building and expanded parking areas. More than 350 persons will occupy the facilities, the company said.

Approximately 50 employees of Kimberly-Clark's nonwoven development group had occupied the building since last September. Other units have moved during recent weeks, with several departments scheduled for moving this weekend and the remainder on Sept. 26.

Following termination in July of a lease agreement which had allowed American Can to share occupancy, most of that company's employees have moved to other American Can facilities in the Neenah-Menasha area. Others earlier had moved to Greenwich, Conn., where the company has established its new general offices.

Harry J. Sheerin, executive vice president of Kimberly-Clark, said K-C's move was made necessary by the continuing growth of its consumer and service products areas.

The additional Main Office space made available by the move will be used to accommodate the added requirements of the company's corporate, international, and paper and forest products areas, he said.

Parks Committee meeting but no action was taken to change the plan. Supervisor Eugene Kloes, Appleton, charged that a committee to coordinate park activities and projects was not needed when planning agencies in the area already were performing that service.

He couldn't see the need for communities within the region to go to still another agency when they have planning problems when they already are paying dues to the Fox Valley Council of Governments and the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission for the same services.

Charles Hervey, executive director of NEWRPC agreed with Kloes.

"You don't need another committee to do what two agencies already are doing," he said.

Nick Karras, committee chairman, said, in reading a resolution that will go before the County Board Wednesday for approval, that a major reason for the proposed coordinating committee would be to improve the communication, which supposedly currently is lacking, between the Parks and Public Property Committee and other governmental bodies involved in parks in Outagamie County.

Under the resolution, the coordinating committee would meet monthly with Karras' committee to "review any applications for funding, establish priorities in the area of parks and recreation and help plan for a better and more efficient parks and recreational system within the county."

Karras reported that a comprehensive countywide park plan prepared by NEWRPC had been accepted by the Department of Natural Resources.

The plan is designed to preserve high quality resources and to provide for areas of urban relief and outdoor recreation opportunities in Outagamie County.

Hearing Set for Youth Arrested In LSD Sale

NEENAH — Winnebago County Juvenile Judge James G. Sarres Thursday set a hearing for Sept. 18 on waiving a 16-year-old Neenah boy, arrested in connection with the sale of LSD, to adult court.

The youth, charged with aiding and abetting the sale of LSD stemming from an incident on Aug. 14, appeared before Judge Sarres Thursday.

A 17-year-old boy, arrested on similar charges, filed an affidavit of prejudice against Judge Sarres and the court commissioner will be asked to appoint another judge to hear the case.

Thomas to Retire As Thilmany Head

KAUKAUNA — J. T. Thomas, president of Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., announced his retirement plans at the company's board of review meeting Wednesday.

According to Thomas he will retire Jan. 1, and Fred Herbolzheimer Jr., senior vice president, will become president.

"For many years, my wife and I have been planning that I would retire when I become 60. I will reach that age Feb. 7 of next year. In anticipation of this, we purchased land in Arizona some years ago and presently are having a home constructed on this property. The home will be completed this fall and it is our plan to move there after retirement," Thomas stated.

Thomas will continue as a director of Hammermill Paper Co., of which Thilmany is a division. He started with Thilmany in 1932 and worked primarily in sales. In 1937, Thomas became a salesman in the Chicago office and in 1940 opened and managed the Detroit office.

He continued in this position until 1959 when he was made vice president of marketing. In 1966, he was named president and chief executive officer. During his years in the paper industry, he has been recognized for his energetic participation in both industry and community associations. He was chairman of the Wisconsin Paper Industry information service from 1968 to 1970, president of the Wisconsin Paper Group, on the board of governors of the Kraft and Packaging Papers Div. of the American Paper Institute as well as a member of the Paper Distribution Council.

Thomas has been a director of the Appleton Memorial Hospital Association, First National Bank of Appleton and Employers Mutual of Wausau. He is affiliated with the Fox Valley Council of Governments and served on the citizen policy advisory committee and the law enforcement advisory committee.

Herbolzheimer, 49, joined Thilmany in 1957 after several years of production and technical experience with the Scott Paper Company. He was made production manager in 1957, vice president for manufacturing in 1961 and senior vice president earlier this year.

He attended the University of Maine and received a bachelor of science degree in pulp and paper technology and his masters degree in chemical engineering.

Today's Type Breads Are About the Same

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: As a health food, which do you recommend: bread made with white flour or whole wheat flour?
We are told today that white flour is enriched. What is it enriched with?
Fifty years or so ago this

subject was much discussed. These days we hear very little about which flour is used for the so-called staff of life. — D.B.M.

To your opening question, I do not recommend either over the other. It's a matter of which you like best.

The whole wheat idea had considerable merit, years ago, because in refining white flour a good deal of the vitamin and mineral value was lost. What was left was largely carbohydrate.

Enriched bread now usually means that B vitamins have been added — thiamine, riboflavin, and niacin. In some instances iron may be added. Calling bread "the staff of life" may not be an entirely accurate way of thinking of it. B vitamins are obtained from other sources, chiefly cereals and meats. We need a certain amount of carbohydrate, but it can be obtained from other sources. Hundreds of millions of people use rice rather than bread as a staple.

Perhaps we'd be better off if we thought of a balanced diet as being the real "staff of life" — protein from meat, fish, and eggs plus a few other sources, carbohydrates whether from bread or other sources, vitamins and minerals from fruits and vegetables.

As to what kind of bread you eat, these days it doesn't make a great deal of difference if the rest of your diet is right.

Baron's Descendant Feels Name Handicaps Him in Pastoral Role

LINCOLN, England (AP) — The new Dean of Lincoln Cathedral is a direct descendant of Baron Twistleton-Wykeham-Piennes, one of the barons who persuaded King John to sign the Magna Carta in 1215. But he's worried about the name. "I've been lumbered with it," says the Very Rev. Oliver Twistleton-Wykeham-Piennes. "It causes a lot of difficulty. It's ridiculous trying to meet new people with a name like that." He wants to be called just Oliver Piennes. And that Piennes is pronounced Fines.

Jailing of a Madison Editor

Newspapermen generally will defend with all their vigor the right of a reporter to protect the anonymity of news sources when those sources have given information on the promise that they can remain anonymous. The principle is basic to the theory of a free press, for only by protecting their sources can reporters in many instances uncover stories about corruption in government or faulty performance of public officials, law enforcement authorities or even the courts.

The principle has not received uniform treatment under the law, however. Some states have enacted laws guaranteeing newsmen such a right. Such a proposed law was considered by the Wisconsin legislature at its last session but failed to win approval of both chambers. A reporter for a college newspaper in the state of Oregon was jailed for refusing to divulge the source of information she published about drug usage on campus. Her conviction was upheld by the Oregon State Supreme Court and the U. S. Supreme Court refused to hear her appeal.

Given this background, consider the case of Mark Knops, Madison editor of the Kaleidoscope, an underground newspaper published in Milwaukee. In the wake of the recent bombing on the Madison University campus, Knops wrote a story for Kaleidoscope stating that he had had contacts with members of the New Year's Gang, that the Gang claimed responsibility for the bombing, and threatened "open warfare, kidnapping of important officials, and even assassination" in the future if their demands were not met by university officials.

Knops was called to testify by a grand jury in Walworth County which is investigating both the burning of Main Hall at Whitewater State University and the Madison bombing. He refused to testify and was sentenced to six months in jail for contempt.

Publicly recognized newspapers such as The Post-Crescent may feel uneasy about a publication like Kaleidoscope being classified also as a newspaper, but there isn't much doubt that the publication should be considered a newspaper within the meaning of the First Amendment. But this doesn't mean that we have to defend Editor Knops in his refusal to divulge his news sources.

A test of reasonableness and dictates of the public interest must be applied to a reporter's right to protect his sources. And in Knops' case his refusal is clearly against the public interest. In effect Knops is protecting persons who claim to be criminals and who threaten further acts inimicable to the public interest.

The Post-Crescent is willing to see the definition of a newspaper stretched to include underground publications like Kaleidoscope and thereby grant to them the constitutional guarantees of a free press. But it cannot condone a reporter such as Knops, or any other reporter for any other newspaper, protecting a criminal or a suspected criminal or criminals in defiance of the interests of the public.

Get a Horse!

The old exhortation to new automobile owners to "get a horse!" seems to have been taken seriously in the last few years. At least the pleasure horse population all over the country is on the upswing.

A recent University of Illinois Horse and Pony Day at the Urbana-Champaign campus surprised sponsors by the attendance which was about four times as high as they expected. People chartered buses for the event and streamed into the Stock Pavilion.

Other statistics cited by D. E. Becker, head of the University of Illinois Department of Animal Science, brought out the growing interest in horses. According to Mr. Becker, "more people in the United States attend horse events each year than attend other major sports events. Horse racing outdraws auto racing by more than 28 million persons, professional and college football by 32.3 million persons, and both major and minor league baseball together by more than 33.7 million persons."

Ambiguities of the Nixon Doctrine

There may be sound reasons for the ambiguity of the Nixon Doctrine for Asia which Vice President Spiro Agnew enunciated once again in a nine day tour of five Asian nations.

The President has emphasized that the United States would have a "lower profile" in Asia and that that continent must take on more responsibility for its own defense. At the same time he has stressed that we won't let down our allies over there. The same sort of double talk was carried on by the Vice President.

Mr. Agnew told Korean troops that the United States "has no intention of relaxing its vigilance or running out on its allies." Then he repeated to Korean President Chung Hee Park that all of the American troops stationed in Korea were coming home as soon as the Korean forces were well modernized but that Korea could not expect much increase, if any, in military aid to help that modernization.

Before he left Washington Mr. Agnew said "we're going to do everything we can to help the Lon Nol government" in Cambodia although Secretary of State William Rogers had earlier commented that that government was not essential to our plans and Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has insisted that American bombing raids in Cambodia were aimed only at protecting American forces in Vietnam and that any aid they gave to the current Cambodian regime was ancillary. Once in Pnom Penh, the Vice President said he made it clear to the premier that the United States would not send troops again to Cambodia but only money and military equipment. But back in Washington he had said that if Cambodia fell to the Communists it would be "impossible" for the United States to pull all troops out of Vietnam. And yet in Saigon the Vice President was highly complimentary about the way he thinks the South Vietnamese are taking over control of their side of the war.

Meanwhile the government of Thailand has announced its plans to withdraw the 11,000 troops it has in South Vietnam, financed by the United States. Reasons may be the desire to put a little more distance between itself and American policies in view of the Nixon Doctrine, the recommendation in the Senate that we pay no other troops bigger bonuses than we are paying our own men in combat and perhaps the need for more Thai defensive units in their own country. But Mr. Agnew continued to talk about taking pride in the common cause.

This ambiguity — in fact almost a conflict of statements — may serve to keep the enemy confused. And yet we have doubts about a policy which will continue to hand out billions to regimes that are hardly more democratic or locally popular than that in Hanoi. Fighting a limited war may turn out to be not only difficult but virtually impossible — at least as far as any real victory or accomplishment is concerned.

Looking Backward

Rev. Dickinson Leaving City

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Sept. 10, 1870.

We regret to hear that the Rev. Henry Dickinson, the eloquent young pastor of the First Congregational Church of this city, will leave Appleton to accept the Professorship tendered him by Oberlin College.

We do not believe his health will admit of such labor, and we trust he will remain here. There is on dit (rumor) afloat, which we can trace to a reliable source, that, if he leaves, his place, will be supplied by the Rev. F. B. Doe, the former pastor.

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Sept. 1, 1945.

Americans jammed the highways that day in the nation's first Labor Day weekend without gas rationing and the first peace time holiday in four years.

Editor, The Post-Crescent: I find it necessary to take exception to The Post-Crescent position on the agency shop for public employees, as editorialized on Tuesday, Aug. 25.

The report indicates that agency shop is a deception a circumlocution, and a euphemism to the standard union shop. I must submit that both terms have separate meanings, and therefore the editorial comparisons of the terms are not accurate.

Union shop means an agreement whereby an employee must join the union and remain a member in good standing to continue employment.

Agency shop means an agreement whereby non-members must pay to the union a sum equal to union dues to cover the costs of negotiating wages, benefits, and other services provided to the member or non-member by the union. Therefore the employee is merely required to pay his fair share of the cost of providing services he receives, whether a member or not. It also requires that two thirds of the employee unit must be in favor of the agency shop and that it then must be negotiated with the employer.

More than five years ago Governor Knowles assigned the well known and probably the most knowledgeable labor law expert in the state, Professor Nathan Fiensinger, to report to the governor and the legislature needed changes in the public employee collective bargaining law. Mr. Fiensinger's report included the provisions of the agency shop, however, he called it the fair share agreement. The governor completely ignored the report of Professor Fiensinger, however, public employee representatives had the provisions of the report introduced in the legislature for the past three sessions as a collective bargaining bill. The editorial comments on the coercive injustice of requiring an employee to pay for the services of the union, and how this type of coercion would insert a wedge between public employment and the celebrated and boasted merit system and the civil service principle. I submit to you that the very reasons you give to oppose this legislation are tools of coercion against union membership.

You also state that there may be employees in a unit who are not interested in union membership, or conceivably, are actively opposed to such membership for reasons that seem sufficient to themselves. (You again imply membership as being mandatory, actually membership is not, but dues are.) A past editorial written by The Post-Crescent on Feb. 15, 1967, stated many of the same arguments as now, but also included that such assessments might be against the tastes, wishes and judgment of an employee. What would be the view of The Post-Crescent if I as a citizen or resident declared that, it is against my tastes, wishes and judgment or for reasons sufficient to myself, I will refrain from paying my share of income or property taxes, my fair share of the cost of government and the services provided by the government.

I am also concerned of the included Bud Everts, Jim Maahs, Tom Murphy, Duke Krabbe, Bruce Kobs, Bud Werner, Lou Horn, Jim Reetz, Leo Lamers, Ron Bunkleman, Bob Helein, Jim Kirkland and Jerry Ohm. Lou Mueller was the manager and Don Werner the bat boy.

Bonnie and Bill Goesser, Brothertown, members of the Working Woodchucks 4-H Club were entered in the light horse and pony division of the Calumet County Fair that weekend in Chilton.

GUBERNATORIAL ELECTIONS EXPECTED TO BRING FEW CHANGES THIS YEAR

Control of Statehouses up for Grabs in 35 States

Background Map

Voters in 35 States Elect Governors in November

Voters in 35 of the 50 states will elect governors this coming election day, Nov. 3. Although not all the races are lined up because not all candidates have been chosen in primary elections, political observers don't expect any great changes to be made in the nation's statehouses when inauguration day in January rolls around. Some of the faces may change because new candidates are replacing incumbents of the same party in some cases, but the party breakdown is expected to remain pretty much the same as it is now.

Of the 35 states in which gubernatorial elections are to be held, Democrats control only 11 statehouses: Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Maryland, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, Texas, Kansas and Hawaii.

The Republicans hold governorships in the rest: New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Florida, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, South Dakota, Nebraska, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, Nevada, Oregon, California and Alaska.

The political pros expect only one statehouse to change hands nearly certainly this fall. That's in Ohio, where Republican James Rhodes is finishing up a four-year term. Running for the GOP will be State Auditor Roger Cloud, facing former Democratic Rep. John J. Gilligan.

Although the party will remain the same in Alabama — its the Democrats; the Republicans aren't even putting up a candidate — the face will change as the result of a bitter primary fight. Former Gov. George Wallace defeated Gov. Albert Brewer in the primary in what many see as a step up the ladder for a new shot at the presidency later on.

With California politics as wacky as they are, no one is making any flat predictions about the outcome there. Gov. Ronald Reagan, a Republican, is being challenged by Democrat Jess Unruh, a former speaker in the state assembly.

Many of the politicians agree that Democrats don't stand to lose much, even if they make no major gains. But any further downturns in the economy under a Republican administration in Washington could have a negative effect on Republican gubernatorial campaigns, many point out.

Wisconsin Report

Less Than One-Third Of State Voters Apt To Vote in Primary

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The judgment is virtually universal. A desultory primary election campaign is likely to yield a shamefully low total of votes when the people of Wisconsin nominate party candidates for public office, from county offices to U. S. senator, next Tuesday.

It is entirely conceivable, given some of the circumstances prevailing this year, that the ratio of primary method of nomination by party caucus and convention.

This reporter has come to the reluctant conclusion that thousands of voters do not understand the purpose and the functioning of the primary election as a nominating process. Surely it is difficult to perceive why as many as two out of three persons who will vote in November on the choices made in September will ignore the September opportunity with any other explanation. Teachers may well take note of the probability, which I submit, is as reasonable as any other that has been offered.

Some persons who may or may not be in earnest object that they should not be limited to a single ballot in the primary — although Wisconsin has one of the most liberal laws in that respect under the provision that there is no condition as to choice. Registration of party affiliation before the primary, and limitation of the vote accordingly, has never been the rule here and has never been seriously considered.

Misunderstanding of Purpose

But to the extent that objections are in earnest, they betray an unfortunate misunderstanding of the political process. Nomination by direct vote is to select candidates who reflect the views and the wishes of voters of similar attitudes on the qualities of the candidates, their programs, their position on the issues, and the ideology of the parties they represent. To suggest statutory authority for nominations on both ballots by the individual elector is like endorsing the idea that the Mexican government should operate the United States Selective Service System.

The primary election was one of the brave achievements of this state a long time ago. It was enacted by the legislature of 1903 which successfully submitted it for the approval of the electorate in 1904.

It is not hard to guess that some of the authors of that reform movement, as it was regarded in those times, and who lived long enough to observe the results over a series of elections thereafter were privately confounded by the failure of so many persons to respond. In this era of universally improved educational opportunity, it is fair to speculate that they would be shocked.

Reasons Are Basic

But these are not truly significant details and have no real relation to the fact that primary election participation has rarely been something to boast about in this state where private citizens and their political representatives like to believe that the civic intelligence and responsibility is a cut or two above many other parts of the country.

It has been a long time since the involvement of the voters in primary elections has fulfilled the dreams, and the claims, of those who campaigned for the primary as a substitute for the classical

People's Forum

Legislators Not Due For Salary Increase

Editor, The Post-Crescent: I would like to make reference to your editorial on Friday, August 28, regarding legislative salaries. I do not believe that the legislators are due for a raise in salary at this time. The taxpayers should be informed that the members of the legislature do not work a full year for their present salary of $8,900.

There is a general misunderstanding concerning the adjournment of the 1969 session of the Wisconsin State Legislature. Many people are under the impression that the legislature is required by the state constitution or state law to adjourn on the date that it did on January 16.

This is not the case. The time of adjournment of the legislature is an arbitrary decision made by the majority party. The only reason the session ended on January 16 is because the Republicans in control rammed through a resolution to adjourn on that date. The Democrats in both houses wanted to continue the session and act on the 1,500 bills that had not been given final disposition.

The record of proceedings clearly shows that Democrats offered several amendments to the adjournment resolution that would have kept the legislature in session. Each of these amendments was defeated by a straight party-line vote.

The legislature is not in session now and does not plan to reconvene until 1971 because the Republican Party, in private caucus without consulting the minority, established January 16 as the adjournment date.

There were literally hundreds of important bills that automatically died when the legislature arbitrarily adjourned.

See What Power Poles Have Done To Greenville

Editor, The Post-Crescent: Public utilities spokesmen have questioned Senator Lorges' plan to include a planning commission in the creation of utilities' right of way. Their objections are absurd. The true question is how they were omitted from the control of the planning commission at all.

I've begun to wonder what portion of my power bill has been spent to buy lobbying to retain this condition.

Utility spokesmen contend that they have worked effectively to retain the beauty of the region. Come to Greenville! See what bigger power poles for more voltage can and will continue to do to our countryside.

Youth Numbers Project Halted After Complaints

Editor, The Post-Crescent: Adults often complain that today's youth is rebellious and irresponsible. They claim that the young have never been so disrespectful.

In recent weeks, Appleton youth have been working hard to improve their community. By marking house numbers on curbs, they have made houses easier to locate in case of an emergency. It is also a convenience for everyday use. This project keeps youth busy and out of their parents' pockets. This service was done without charge and ran only on donations.

Now many Appleton residents have complained out of both ignorance and prejudice. As a result of these complaints, the project has been halted and many youths won't forget why.

Here was a clear example where youth took responsibility and really tried to improve their environment. But certain knee-jerk Appletonians failed to let it through their thick skulls that anyone under 30 could do good. They also failed to see that you can't tell how a person thinks by the length of his hair or his style of dress. And you can't bridge the generation gap by kicking youth in the tailbone.

The players tell how they intend to travel and give sound effects.

If a player misses the correct sequence or misses the required sound effect he must drop out of the game. The last player remaining is the winner.

The game is bound to produce laughs as the players come up with their methods of travel and suitable sounds. Examples are illustrated in the picture above.

In figure 1 the player starts the game by saying, "I am going by car -- honk! honk!" The next player repeats the first player's mode of travel and sound effect and adds one of his own.

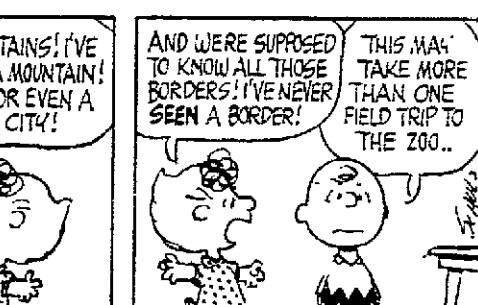

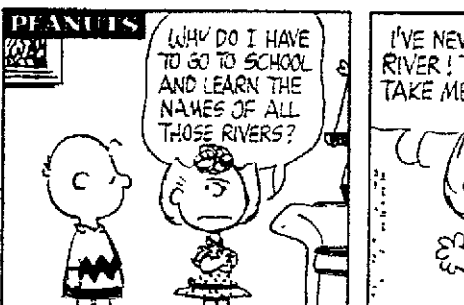

A third player would have to repeat what the first two said, and add a mode of travel of his own. In this case he might say, "I am going by car -- honk! honk!, then by train -- clickety-clack, clickety-clack, then by donkey. hee haw. hee haw!" Another player might say he will go by ferry boat and his sound effect might be "pow-chow. pow-chow." Horseback, camel-back, wading, airplane, and elephant-back could be other modes of travel.

Monday: Lots more good fun for every boy and girl!

Black Panthers Gather at Temple For Convention

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -- The Black Panthers and members of other militant and radical organizations converge, under the watchful eyes of police, today on Temple University to hold their convention for "revolutionary, oppressed peoples."

"We like freedom, that's all, and we want it," said Huey Newton, cofounder and national minister of defense of the Black Panthers.

Shouts of "Power to the people" rang out from supporters as Newton, clenched fist held high in the traditional black power gesture, arrived Friday.

The three-day convention, to be held in a gymnasium a few miles from where the Founding Fathers gave birth to a nation, has the expressed aim of laying the ground work for "a true people's constitution."

Police Raid
Peering through tinted, golf framed glasses, Newton asserted the meeting would be free of violence only if Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo desired it.

Rizzo has suggested trouble is possible, and tried to keep the Panthers out of town. His men last Monday raided three Pan-

Roger Appointed to Advisory Committee

KAUKAUNA — State Rep. William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, has been named to the Advisory Committee on Medical Education by Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton.

Others making up the committee include two state senators, another assemblyman, five doctors, a nurse and four citizens. The group will hold its first meeting Sept. 10 at Madison.

Purpose of the committee is to study the medical situation in the state and attempt to find solutions to the problem of keeping doctors within the state.

"We find that Wisconsin is below the national average in the number of doctors per 1,000 population," said Rogers. "In rural Wisconsin this problem of no doctor is becoming more acute. I believe that if state dollars are used to improve medical education in Wisconsin, methods should be explored to encourage doctors educated here to remain in the state."

Formation of the committee is an outgrowth of a letter and talk by the president of the State Medical Society, and a

Slick Road A Factor in 2 Accidents

OSHKOSH — Police said wet pavement was a contributing factor Thursday in two accidents in which two persons complained of injuries.

Mrs. Patsyann Kabke, 32, 113 Gardner Row, Appleton, was taken to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital complaining of rib injuries received at 4:42 p.m. when the car she was riding in was hit in the right side as it crossed the westbound lanes of State 47.

The car was driven by Robert R. Kabke, 43, 113 Gardner Row. Sheriff's deputies said the Kabke car was making a right turn across the westbound lanes when struck by a car driven by Thomas P. Skibba, 20, 1002 Airport Road, Menasha.

The Kabke auto received about $800 damage to the right side and the Skibba auto received about $600 damage to the left front end.

Marlin A. Abel, Jr., 24, 314 Eagle St., Seymour, complained of a neck injury Thursday evening after he slowed his car for traffic in front of him and was struck from behind by another auto which skidded on the wet pavement.

Police said Abel was southbound on State 47 about 100 feet north of Clovis Street when hit by a car driven by Randall D. Page, 17, 748 Mantowoc St., Menasha.

Police said neither car was extensively damaged.

Hearing Held on Service Station Burglary Case

The case of Ronald Schermitzler, 19, 1407 W. Summer St., who is charged by Appleton detectives with the burglary of a service station, was bound over Thursday after a preliminary hearing.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer directed that another judge be selected to hear further proceedings in the case. Merchandise, including oil, anti-freeze and transmission fluid, plus $114, were reportedly taken in the June 16 break-in.

Thursday's key witness was a youth who worked at the southside station, and entered the building with Schermitzler. He told the court they first planned to enter the building by force, but used a key he furnished instead. He was granted immunity before taking the stand Thursday.

No date was set for trial. Schermitzler is free on a $1,500 signature bond.

Civil Air Patrol Volunteers For Weekend Safety Program

The Fox Cities squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will participate in the American Automobile Association's "Bring 'em Back Alive" program, this weekend. The purpose of the program is to keep the public aware of traffic conditions. Traffic conditions on U.S. 41 from Green Bay to Fond du Lac and on U. S. 10 from Brillion to Waupaca will be reported by Civil Air Patrol aircraft and mobile units to the Fox Cities squadron building at the Outagamie County airport. From there, the reports are transferred by radio to the AAA building in Madison where they are compiled by AAA personnel and released hourly to about 50 Wisconsin radio stations.

In addition to traffic conditions, Civil Air Patrol also reports the boating conditions on Lakes Winnebago, Poygan and Koshong.

This is the ninth holiday that the Civil Air Patrol has helped in the "Bring 'em Back Alive" program. AAA has reported that there has been a decline in accidents and deaths on Wisconsin highways in areas being patrolled by Civil Air Patrol.

Your Problems 12-Year-Old Hates to Part With a Dime

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell me if there is something wrong with my mind, like mental illness, I mean. I am twelve years old and I am so cheap it is disgusting. I just love it when somebody buys me an ice cream cone or gives me half a candy bar. And I am thrilled when I get a present of any kind. But when it comes to spending a dime on someone else I can always think of a dozen reasons why I shouldn't.

I save almost all my allowance. Right now I have $43 put away. On Mother's Day I made up a poem so I wouldn't have to spend any money on a present. My mother was very pleased and even said it was a better gift than anything money could buy. On Father's Day I did the same thing. The poem I composed for my dad

Reassessment Reversed by Circuit Court

FREMONT — The Town of Fremont Board of Review had no authority to reassess land owned by Arthur Sebstead in 1969, Circuit Court Judge James H. Levi has ruled.

The decision overrules the board's reassessment of the Sebstead farm property, and holds that the town assessor's assessment is correct.

Sebstead, in applying for a review of the situation by the court, claimed that the Board of Review, without authority, attempted to reassess his property at an increase of approximately $8,000. The farm had been assessed by the town assessor, and Sebstead had accepted that assessment.

Sebstead stated that this is the fourth time in the last six years that he has had to litigate his assessment when values have been placed on his farm which are contrary to expert appraisals.

Judge Dismisses Charge in Death

SHEBOYGAN (AP) — Sheboygan County Judge John G. Buchen dismissed Thursday a manslaughter charge against Mrs. Judith Marie Devereaux in the gunshot death of her common-law husband July 27.

The motion came after the state had presented evidence that William A. Shulka, 29, had been killed by three pistol shots during a violent quarrel in the couple's home at Beechwood Mrs. Devereaux, 26, pleaded innocent.

The defendant claimed that in the course of a three-hour battle, Shulka had shot holes in a refrigerator and stove, and had given her a gun and told her to shoot herself.

Mrs. Devereaux alleged she fired a warning shot from a pistol and then discharged it three times in an effort to stop Shulka from choking her father.

Tiger Rally Tips Kimberly

KIMBERLY Scoring twice within three minutes of the final quarter, the Chilton Tigers spoiled Kimberly's opening grid contest here Friday night, 12-8.

The Papermakers scored first, bringing to a halt the unscored upon record chalked up by the Tigers last year. The two teams battled through three quarters before a shirt-sleeved crowd, neither able to dent the scoring column.

With 6:16 left in the contest, Ben Van Beek tore through the Tiger line and ran 18 yards for a score, carrying two men with him into the end zone. He followed this up with a run for a 2-point conversion and an 8-0 Kimberly lead.

The score seemed to arouse the invaders as they stormed back to tally a TD of their own on the subsequent series of downs. Dan Keuler ran back the kick-off following Kimberly's score to his own 45-yard line. Mike Weller then skirted end and went 55 yards to the end zone, but a motion penalty brought the ball back and Kimberly fans breathed a sigh of relief.

Breaks Loose Again
Three plays later Weller again skirted end, this time rambling 34 yards before being collared.

Chuck Tanner To Pilot Chisox

Former Brave Given Two-Year Pact by Holcomb

CHICAGO (AP) — Chuck Tanner, who hit a home run in his first time at bat in the major leagues, was signed Friday to a two-year contract as manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Tanner didn't hit many more homers in the majors in his brief stunts with the Milwaukee Braves, Chicago Cubs, Cleveland Indians and California Angels.

However, he made his mark as a manager in the minor leagues during the last seven years and this season piloted the Hawaii Islanders to the Southern Division Championship of the Pacific Coast League.

Tanner, 41, replaces Don Gutierrez. He will join the Sox following the Pacific Coast League playoffs. He was selected by Stu Holcomb, who earlier this week replaced Ed Short as general manager of the White Sox and in his first official act fired Gutierrez last Wednesday.

attempt failed for the PAT, but the Tigers held a 12-8 lead and the clock was on their side.

Early game jitters seemed to plague both teams as fumbles and penalties at crucial times halted potential threats. The Tigers were having trouble moving through the Kimberly line and the Papermakers put a good rush on the passer, but the wide sweeps caused the losers' trouble. Weller, who carried only twice, led the Tiger runners with 51 yards. His 55-yard run for another score was nullified by a penalty.

Dexter Sattler was the workhorse for the winners, carrying 14 times for 49 yards. Jim Rusch carried 17 times for 72 yards for the winners and Ben Van Beek picked up 49 yards in 15 attempts. John Kotkosky completed 10 of 16 pass attempts for the losers, some on circus catches by Jim Rooyakkers and Dave Van Bostel. He was trapped for a minus 31 yards in pass attempts.

His counterpart at quarterback, Ken Schommer, connected on only two of seven passes, one of these for a score. Jim Ratz halted a Kimberly drive in the closing seconds of the first half when he intercepted a Kotkosky aerial in the end zone and ran it out to the 10-yard line. The half ended before another play could be run off.

Hundreds Pass Closed Casket

Vince's Friends Gather

WASHINGTON (AP) — Friends, football fans and just plain admirers paid their respects Friday to Vince Lombardi, the Washington Redskins' coach who died from cancer a little more than 24 hours earlier.

During the first hour his body lay in repose at a Washington funeral home, several hundred people walked past the closed casket.

Among the first mourners were former Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren. Pro Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle, Italian Ambassador Egidio Ortona, Redskins President Edward Bennett Williams and football hall of fame Wayne Miller and Cliff Battles.

"I can't say it was a great shock but it was a blow to the community," said Warren. "He was a great citizen. He had the character that this country needs right now."

In addition to the notables, however, there were the ordinary people who loved Lombardi—and whom he loved: the policemen, the janitors, the nurses, the priests, the young kids with footballs.

All People
There were also the old, the black and despite Lombardi's dislike for some mod dress, some long-hairs in tee shirts, dungarees and sandals.

Some had waited more than an hour in a hot Washington summer sun in order to spend a few minutes in front of his casket in the small chapel at Gawler's Funeral Home.

The casket was surrounded by flowers. One basket, centered in front of the casket, bore a card from The White House.

Lombardi's widow, Marie, and children, arrived about an hour before the public was permitted to enter. The family and some close friends viewed an open casket on the second floor of the funeral home before the body was placed in the chapel.

A funeral home spokesman said it was the family's wish that the casket be closed to the public.

Ebert Shines

Bulldogs Blank Shawano, 16-0

BY ROGER PITT

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON — Shawano never got its running game going Friday as New London posted a 16-0 verdict over the Indians in a non-conference game.

The victory was the first of the season for the Bulldogs, while Shawano suffered its second defeat.

Ken Ebert, following behind the punishing blocking of tackle Len Luedtke, rambled for 119 yards and a touchdown. Mike Baehman accounted for the other TD with a 22-yard pass to Bill Stern in the second period.

Rash of Penalties

A rash of penalties in the first period stymied the Bulldogs' attack as several substantial gains were nullified because of off-side penalties.

The Indians received the opening kick and returned to their own 39. Luedtke stopped the first play for no gain and Dave Johnson — who later recovered two fumbles — hauled down Al Schneider for a yard loss. A pass attempt failed and Shawano was forced to punt, as New London took over at its 38.

The Bulldogs picked up a total of 65 yards in the series, but most of that was discounted because of penalties. A total of seven penalties were called, and as a result the Bulldogs only managed to advance to the Shawano 32.

The next time the Indians got their hands on the ball — at their own 7 after a punt — they again failed to mount an attack. An open-field tackle by Todd Hanson averted a probable Shawano TD. Hanson came back two plays later to pick off a pass at the 21 and return 19 yards to the Bulldogs' 40.

Johnson got the Bulldogs started as he fell on a fumble at the Shawano 36. Baehman, on a third and nine play, tossed 16 yards to Mark Birkholz for a first down. Four plays later, Baehman connected with Stern to give the Bulldogs the lead with 3:20 left. Slosarek ran around end for the two-point conversion.

New London came back with another threat in the first half after Steve Sanders intercepted a pass at the Shawano 48. A pass interception in the end zone ended the threat after New London had moved to the 13. Johnson made his second fumble recovery two plays later at the 13-yard line, but New London could run only one play before the half ended.

The Bulldogs drove 36 yards to the Shawano 22 after the second half kick before the drive failed. Shawano came back with its only serious drive of the game as the Indians picked up four first downs — two by passing and one each by penalty and rushing. The drive ended at the Bulldogs' 24.

Ebert, behind Luedtke, Johnson and Krostue, carried on 9 of 11 plays for 64 yards. The stocky fullback bulled into the end zone with 10:16 left in the fourth period for the TD. Baehman added the 2-point on a keeper.

Cubs Climb Into Share of NL Lead by Beating Mets, 7-4

Bucs, Phils Suspended In 7th Inning

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Rain, rain, go away . . . and take that ornery tarpaulin in Pittsburgh with you.

With the Pirates leading 4-1 Friday night, Philadelphia's Don Money walked to open the seventh inning when the rains came. The automatic tarpaulin, which rises out of a trench along the third base line in Pittsburgh's new Three Rivers Stadium, was set in motion.

Up went the lid, out came the tarp a few feet and then . . . Bang!

With a loud crash, part of the cover fell back on the roller, wedging it. When repairmen failed to get it going, Pirate officials contacted Charles Feeney, president of the National League, and received permission to suspend the game and continue it before tonight's regularly scheduled contest.

Pending the final outcome, the Pirates remained .0004 of a percentage point ahead of the Chicago Cubs in the National League East. The Cubs beat the New York Mets 7-4, dropping the losers 1½ games back.

Padres Romp

Elsewhere in the NL, San Diego clobbered Cincinnati 15-2. Houston downed Los Angeles 7-3 and Montreal edged St. Louis 9-7 in 13 innings. San Francisco and Atlanta were rained out in the fifth inning with the Giants leading 1-0.

Solo homers by Richie Hebner, Bob Robertson and Willie Stargell staked the Pirates to their 4-1 lead. Steve Blass, who held the Phillies to five hits through six innings, will be replaced tonight by George Brunet. The Phils will wait to see what happens in the top of the seventh before they decide on a new pitcher.

Pelky Gains 203 Yards
 Oshkosh Buries
 Mt. Carmel, 20-0

BY JINX GNERLICH
 Special to The Post-Crescent
 OSHKOSH — Halfback Jim Pelky and the Oshkosh High defensive unit had a field day as the Indians shut out Chicago Mount Carmel High School, 20-0, Friday night.
 Pelky, running behind an offensive line that seemed shot from a gun, staked property rights on Jackson field as he gained 203 yards in 30 attempts, 133 coming in the first half.
 He scored a pair of touchdowns on runs of four and 64 yards and carried the ball all but three plays of the second half. Quarterback Jeff Hiesburg scored the other touchdown and Jim Case kicked a pair of extra points.
 The Indian defense made a shambles of the Mount Carmel attack, allowing only 99 yards and five first downs. Oshkosh amassed 303 yards, 295 of them rushing, and 17 first downs.
 While the Indians failed to get on the scoreboard in the first quarter they were putting together a strong ball control offense that would pay off in points later in the game. Twice fumbles and penalties stopped them at the visitors 35 in the first period. But the Indian defense gave Mount Carmel fits throughout the half, not allowing a first down until five minutes were left until intermission.
 Pelky broke loose in the second period and the two quick Oshkosh scores were the Indians' sole points until late in the game. Pelky provided the impetus in a 47-yard touchdown drive with a 25-yard sprint that only safety Al Lenki stopped from going all the way. Hiesburg, whose quarterback keepers were good for 64 yards this night, sprinted out for 13 more. Three plays later Pelky shoved his way into score behind the hard charging line.
 Only two minutes later Pelky was at it again. With the ball at the Indian 36, Pelky wheeled to the left on a Packer sweep and a pair of crushing blocks sprung him into the secondary. He outran the Mount Carmel backs the last 40 yards enroute to a 60-yard TD. In a matter of four minutes in Indians were up 14-0.
 Mount Carmel mounted a last-ditch drive with five minutes left in the half. But quarterback Jack Kilmartin was called for intentional grounding on third down at the Oshkosh 13, costing his team a loss of down as well as the penalty yardage. That break was all the Indian needed to hold on to their 14-0 lead until halftime.
 The third quarter was a comedy of errors. Mount Carmel drove to the Oshkosh 33 on their first series but fumbled the ball away.
 The teams exchanged fumbles midway through the period, and Oshkosh took its break and turned it into a 51-yard drive capped by a gutty 25-yard touchdown run by Pelky which was called back because of holding. The Indians were stopped but Pelky kicked a punt which rolled dead on the Mount Carmel one. It was that kind of evening for the visitors.

 With five minutes left in the game the Indians drove 40 yards in a clock-killing, four-minute touchdown drive capped by Hiesburgs 10-yard run on the keeper. The run for the extra point failed, but the game was sacked, 20-0, making the ride back to Illinois for the visitors even longer.

Wolves Fail to Dent 'Wega Defense in Tie
 MANAWA — Weyauwega was pushed all over the field by the Manawa Wolves Friday in a non-conference game but never into its own end zone as the Indians salvaged a scoreless tie.
 Manawa amassed 251 total yards in the game to Weyauwega's 93. Three penalties negated potential Manawa scoring drives in the game.
 Gil Sager rambled for 32 yards on the first series but Manawa was forced to yield possession at the Indian four after moving a total of 52-yards downfield. Sager gained 152 yards during the evening.
 Weyauwega mounted only series scoring threat after that but the Wolves Jim Hass picked off a Gary Schmies pass in the end zone to end it. Schmies completed 5 of 11 aeriels for 32 yards.
 The Bears rolled up 351 yards, is now 2-0 in non-conference including 284 on the ground. Reinke carried 12 times to gain his game-high total.

Mueller, Reinke Lead Bears Win Over Wonnecone, 40-8
 BONDUEL — Dave Mueller and Jim Reinke had a hand in five Bonduel touchdowns Friday night as the Bears crushed Wonnecone in a non-conference football game, 40-8.
 Mueller passed for two touchdowns and scored one himself, while Reinke crossed the goal line once and set up another enroute to totaling 153 yards for the evening.
 Wonnecone's lone score came in the final period when quarterback Ron Rozek pitched to Jim Johnson, who laterated to teammate Darr Konekman who went 40 yards for the touchdown. Konekman then ran for the two-point conversion.
 Bonduel's defense held the Wolves to a minus six yards on the ground in the first half, as the Bears gained a 28-0 halftime lead. Wonnecone finished with only 56 yards rushing and 72 through the air.

Marion Trips Chargers in CWC, 20-0
 WITTENBERG — Senior end Mike Mattes scored a pair of touchdowns, one on a 53-yard punt return, as Marion blanked Wittenberg-Birnawood, 20-0, in the Central Wisconsin Conference opener for both schools.
 The winning Mustangs scored single TD's in each of the first three periods for the Chargers, who dropped a 31-0 non-league start to Colby last week.
 Gary Beyersdorf gave Marion its first score on a 1-yard plunge. In the second period Mattes took a fifteen yard scoring strike from Mike Meyer, and then turned loose on his long punt return for a six pointer in the third quarter.
 Marion's ground game piled up 143 yards with Beyersdorf getting the call 13 times for 86 of those yards. The Mustangs registered their first conference win in two years. Oddly enough, Marion's last victim was Wittenberg.

Field Goal Gives Polar Bears Win
 HORTONVILLE — A 33-yard field goal which hit the cross bar and fell across with only 25 seconds remaining in the game provided Hortonville with a 3-0 non-conference win over Germantown Friday night.
 John Kreul kicked the winning field goal after John Ziegler took a Germantown punt with 1:35 left and returned it 10 yards to the 50. He had runs of eight and nine yards which brought the ball to the 33 for the crucial try.
 The Polar Bears might have crushed Germantown, but they fumbled twice within the 10-yard line, dropped a pass in the end zone and had another pass intercepted on the five. Germantown nearly got on the board but had a first half score called back because of a penalty.
 The Polar Bears fumbled on the six with two minutes left in the second half. They dropped a touchdown pass in the first quarter, fumbled into the end zone after driving 75 yards with the second half opening kickoff, and had a pass stolen with two minutes remaining in the third canto.
 The Hortonville defense didn't allow Germantown to cross the 50 in the second half. The Warhawks finished the night with only 97 yards on the

Discards Dress for Comfort Nancy Richey Advances in U.S. Open
 FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The other girls can have their lace panties and frilly skirts but Nancy Richey is content to look like a tomboy on the court so long as she continues to win tennis matches.
 "Oh, sometimes I get a little envious and wish I could be more feminine out there," the petite, 28-year-old top-ranking American woman player said today. "I have to decide whether I want to look nice or be comfortable."
 Nancy is rated America's top hope of exploding the grand slam bid of Australia's Margaret Court in the women's division of the U.S. Open tennis championships, ending their first week of competition.
 No. 1 nationally, she has won 20 national titles throughout the world but never the major U.S. crown on grass. She was beaten by Mrs. Court in the final last year, 6-2, 6-2.
 She is the only woman in the field who wears boyish shorts. She also wears a floppy cloth hat which she pulls low over her eyes.
 "I would like to wear a dress, but I just can't—I've tried it," she said. "When I started playing tennis, I got in the habit of putting the second ball in my pocket when I served. Dresses don't have pockets."
 Nancy advanced to the third round Friday by beating Gail Chantreau of France, who last year had broken her 33-match winning streak in the National Clay Courts at Indianapolis. The score was 6-3, 6-3.
 While ballerina skirts are the mode for the women contestants, not all of these pass the rigid inspection of captain Mike Gibson, the tournament referee imported from Wimbledon.
 Gibson banned a lace see-through dress worn by shapely Ingrid Bentzer of Sweden and advised the Stockholm lass to get more appropriate attire.
 "It is illusinary," said the designer of the dress, Teddy Tining of London, who shocked staid Wimbledon in 1949 with Gussie Moran's lace panties.
 "The new style is the nude look and it's not bad taste so long as you don't see the bare skin."
 If the draw goes according to form, Nancy will meet the favored Mrs. Court in the semifinals next week.
 Mrs. Court today faces Patti Hogan of Lajolla, Calif., who upset her a week ago in the Marlboro Open at Orange, N.J.
 In the featured men's matches, Pancho Gonzales goes against tough Nicola Pilic of Yugoslavia and Stan Smith, the top U.S. ranked player, meets the formidable Russian champion, Alex Metreveli.
 Gonzales beat Russian Vladimir Korotkov in the second round Friday, 7-6, 6-3, 7-6.
 Singles matches went according to form and the lone upset came in the doubles where unseeded Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico and young Erik Van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif., stunned Australia's top-seeded John Newcombe and Tony Roche, the Wimbledon champions, in the second round, 3-6, 6-3, 7-6, 6-4.
 Little Speed's, Macs Gain Semi-finals
 MENASHA — Little Speed's of Green Bay and the Menasha Macs advanced to the semi-finals of the Menasha Athletic Association softball tournament by posting victories Friday night.
 Fred Fels, who normally hurls for 616 Club of Green Bay, tossed a 1-hitter as the Macs stopped Pizza Hut of Appleton, 3-0.
 The Menashans collected all of their runs in the fourth inning off Bob Ashenbrenner.
 Little Speed's gave up three runs to Tommy's Angels of Oshkosh in the first inning but came back to record a 5-4 verdict. The winners post four in the third, including a 3-run homer by Jim Hayes.
 The Macs and Little Speed's will vie at 6:30 p.m. before the second semi-final, which will match winners of this afternoon's Schouten Oil-Oregon Clothing and Tosh-Benkowski Budweiser games.
 Oconto Falls — The Clintonville Truckers scored all of their points in the first half, chalking up three touchdowns late in the second quarter, and handed Oconto Falls a 26-10 setback in the Bay Conference opener for both teams Friday night.
 Quarterback Randy Nelson and end John Jartz were instrumental figures in the Trucker triumph. Nelson, slightly off form, connected on just six of 17 passes, but one of them was a 56-yard TD pass to Jartz in the first period.
 Nelson's aeriels accounted for 189 yards for the evening. The 6-1, 170-pounder senior, an All-Mid-Eastern Conference selection last year, also ran for a 10-yard TD.
 In addition to catching the scoring pass, Jartz set up the Clints' final TD just before the end of the half when he grabbed a 32-yard Nelson toss that carried to the Panthers' 10-yard line. Jartz also intercepted two Oconto Falls passes as a defensive ace.
 Clintonville linebacker Jim Salzman stole another Panther pass in the second frame and returned the ball 66 yards for his team's third touchdown, and Mike Mahnke bulled one yard for the last Trucker score on the final play of the first half.
 Safety for Panthers
 Nelson hit Craig LeBeau for a 2-point conversion after the second Clintonville touchdown, but two other passes and one run attempt on conversions failed.

Wicker, Sanders Star 10th Inning Hit Lifts Brewers Past Chicago
 By BOB GREENE
 MILWAUKEE (AP) Ken Sanders used control and Floyd Wicker used his bat Friday night to give the Milwaukee Brewers a 10-inning victory over the Chicago White Sox 3-2.
 "I have confidence now," said Sanders, who hurled three innings of scoreless ball to pick up his fourth victory against no losses. "Before, when I played for the Kansas City Athletics, I thought I could get the batters out, but I wasn't positive. Now I know I can get anybody out."
 Catcher Phil Roof, who also was a teammate of Sanders in Kansas City, said the hurler has improved because of control and by using a slider that doesn't break "as much as before."
 "When he was in Kansas City, his slider would break this much," Roof said, holding his hands about two feet apart. "Now it breaks only about six inches."
 Great Control
 "The batters know he's going to throw it," Roof said, "but they can't do anything about it. He's got great control, and once in a while he'll throw a fast ball on the inside. The batters can't get too close to get good wood on the slider because they're thinking about that inside fast ball."
 Sanders came into the game with none out in the eighth and two White Sox runners on base. He got the first batter to hit a grounder to third, but Tommy Harper bobbled the ball, filling the bases.
 A force play scored Chicago's second run to tie the game. Sanders then got out of the inning and only allowed one other runner on the rest of the way, that runner reaching via another error.
 "I have had excellent control this year," Sanders said. "I've

Schwahn's Passing Keys Lions To 33-12 Romp Over Shiocton
 BRILLION — The Brillion Lions, led by quarterback Tom Schwahn and running backs Dick Patterson and Steve Tiemor, posted a 33-12 non-conference victory over Shiocton Friday night.
 The two former Little Nine Conference rivals battled on even terms through most of the first half, but then Brillion, now in the Olympian Conference, pulled into a 20-12 lead against its Central Wisconsin Conference foe.
 The Lions then added single touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters to wrap up the victory.
 Schwahn, completing eight of 11 passes good for 170 yards, hitting Tiemor with 10 yards to halfback Gary Koerth and 65 yards to fullback Tiemor.
 Tiemor also tallied on a 1-yard plunge, while Patterson raced across the Chiefs' goal twice — from 12 yards out in the first quarter and eight yards away in the final stanza.
 Hervey Smith caught a Schwahn pass for the winners' lone successful conversion. Three Bob Stanelle kicks failed.
 Shiocton, which tied the game at 6-6 in the first quarter, got on the scoreboard when quarterback Dick Clausen flipped a 20-yard toss to flanker back Neil Conrad. The PAT kick was blocked.
 Conrad also tallied the other Chiefs' TD on a 30-yard reverse. Clausen was stopped on the conversion attempt on a run.
 Brillion, which held a 13-6 margin in first downs, also mounted a 328-215 edge over the Chiefs in total yards. The Lions had a big 170-42 advantage in passing, but Shiocton had a 173-158 margin in rushing yardage.

 VALDERS — A first quarter touchdown run of 78 yards by John Morotek highlighted Valdors' 12-7 non-conference football win over Cedar Grove Friday night.

DA Race Leads GOP Spending

OSHKOSH — The two candidates for district attorney, William Carver and Thomas Fink, are the biggest campaign spenders in county races.

In campaign expense statements filed in County Clerk Dorothy Propp's office, Carver spent $1,483 and Fink $507. Carver and his committees listed contributions of $809. Fink's forces said they'd received $842.

Both men are running on the Republican ticket and will face each other in the Tuesday primary.

Coroner Contest

In the only other primary contest is Republican incumbent coroner Art C. Miller vs. same-party challenger Duane I. Moore, who has received $345 and spent $192. Miller has made no expenditures nor received any contributions, according to his statement.

The other contests will not be decided until Nov. 3.

Incumbent County Clerk Dorothy Propp, Republican, has spent $44; her Democratic challenger Richard J. Spanbauer Jr. spent $66.

Present County Treasurer

Frank Luedeker, Republican, spent $65; Daniel J. Carrick, his Democratic opponent, spent $63.

No money has yet been spent by Democratic candidates Patricia P. Swartzberg and Priscilla Leith. The Republican incumbents they will face in November, William E. Osborne, clerk of courts, and Viola Firnstahl, register of deeds, have not spent much. Osborne says $41 and Firnstahl $20.

Republican Sheriff Marvin R. Pepler said he spent $150. He is unopposed.

Most of the money has bought media time or space. The rest has gone to printers for posters, match books, bumper stickers and the like.

Police Stop Beer Party At Kaukauna

Ten Kaukauna area young people learned Friday that a Wednesday beer party might be the most expensive they ever attended.

A Century Late James Island Exists!

NEENAH — MENASHA — The Department of the Interior has finally recognized what twin city residents have known for years — James Island does exist.

The tiny plot of ground in Little Lake Butte des Morts near the Neenah-Menasha sewage treatment plant, had been omitted from the original survey maps which date back to 1834.

Land Office

But according to an announcement from the Department of Interior, Bureau of Land Management, Eastern States Land Office in Silver Spring, Md., James Island will be officially filed in that office on Oct. 5.

Anyone who has ever seen aerial maps of Little Lake Butte des Morts can attest that James Island does exist. It is just downstream from the sewage treatment plant bypass valves which during the past several years have achieved a degree of new notoriety.

Did Exist in 1848

The department, in its announcement said, "the character of the island and timber growth thereon attest to its existence on May 29, 1848, when Wisconsin was admitted to the union, and at all times since."

"The island's formation is in all regards similar to the opposite mainland. It is of rich sandy loam formation over large boulders, or rock outcroppings, with an elevation of 5 feet above mean high-water level. Timber consists mostly of maple, ash, boxelder, cottonwood and dogwood, with undergrowth of young trees, brush and grass. There is no evidence of improvements, present use, or occupancy of this island," the department said, in its release dated Aug. 31.

Existing Rights

It adds "except for valid existing rights, this land will not be open to any applications for use or disposition under the public land laws until it has been classified and further order is issued."

After over a century of being overlooked, James Island will now officially become a part of the United States and Wisconsin.

Yes, Mr. Hickie, there is a James Island.

Menasha Man Fined, License Suspended On Speeding Charge

NEENAH — Robert Gayhart, 25, 217 Washington St., Menasha, was fined $150 and costs and his driver's license was suspended for 5 days after he pleaded guilty to speeding.

He appeared before Winnebago County Judge James V. Sitter this week to answer the charge filed when he was arrested on June 24 on S Commercial Street.

William D. Tobin, 19, 826 Tayco St., Menasha, was fined $37 and $32 after signing stipulations of guilt for disorderly conduct and possession of fermented malt beverages. He was arrested July 3.

Regis Greiner, 21, 938 Green Bay Road, paid $29 after pleading guilty to speeding.

Zane Greiner, 21, 938 Green Bay Road, paid $29 after pleading guilty to speeding.

Zane R. Huff, 150 Jackson St., paid $32 after signing a stipulation of guilt for curfew violation.

Winnebago Park Group Starts Budget Planning

OSHKOSH — The Park Committee began budget planning for next year Thursday. There were no surprises. The biggest item is $135,000 for capital improvements to Community Park.

It is the amount set by the county board to be spent each year to develop the 252-acre site. The total project is almost $1 million.

Capital expenditures for the rest of the park system are held to $11,000. Most will be spent for improving docking and the channel area and buying new picnic tables at Winnebago Park.

Operating expenditures for the little parks were approved, $6,800, but labor costs were not added. Last year labor was $6,400, but for 1971 it is expected to go up. People will have to be hired to care for the new community park and lifeguards and attendants will have to be hired to run the swimming lake.

Committee member Herbert Ilk, Oshkosh, said they recommend a man and a half be added to care for the park and eight to 10 lifeguards and attendants for swimmers. The Labor Relations Committee will review the requests before the board acts.

Revenue

"We are going to work on anticipated revenue from the swimming park," Ilk said. The committee hopes it will offset the expense of the lifeguards and attendants. Swimming and season ticket rates have not been worked out.

The county's share of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission budget, $25,300, was also approved. Winnebago County pays 38 percent of Northeastern's budget. The share is based on equalized real estate value. $842 million for Winnebago County, of the nine-county planning group. Menominee County's equalized value, for comparison, is only $20 million.

The park budget has a couple charming expenditures, $1,400 for fox boundaries and $400 for apiary inspections.

Judge Delays Action Against Neenah Youths

NEENAH — Legal proceedings against juveniles charged with various criminal acts from property damage to burglary were adjourned Thursday by Winnebago County Juvenile Judge James G. Sarres to give the youths time to make restitution and stay out of trouble.

One 15-year-old boy charged with six counts of criminal damage to property, was told the charges would be dismissed if he paid $41 in restitution and stayed out of trouble until Dec. 17.

A 14-year-old boy, charged with a Jan. 11 burglary, was also given until Dec. 17 to stay out of trouble. Another, charged with a pair of curfew violations, two burglaries and operating a vehicle without the owner's consent was ordered to pay back $94 and was grounded after 7 p.m. for the next 30 days.

A 13-year-old girl was also grounded for 30 days after she admitted possession of fermented malt beverages.

A 14-year-old boy was ordered to pay back $23 within a week after he admitted an Aug. 1 burglary.

Criminal damages charges against a 14-year-old girl were dismissed after she paid her $115 share of the damage.

County Airport Outlay Spending Down for '71

BY BILL HURRLE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Airport capital outlay will be dramatically less in 1971 as the budget reads. Terminal construction costs and land acquisition ($15 million) carried under other categories.

Michael Brock, airport manager, said Friday that the projects capital outlay for next year at $32,000. Biggest item is $8,700 for a tractor with a front-end loader.

Terminal Alone

This year's capital outlay budget was $266,600, with the Lion's share going to pay for airport terminal plans and land for the north-south runway. Brock said $50,000 would not be used. It was marked for land at 20th Street which is now covered under bonding.

Operating expenses will stay very nearly the same as this year. The budget shows $37,460 for 1970 and Brock projects $37,640 for next year.

Salaries

The vast majority of the money, $31,600, goes for salaries to pay for the six airport full-timers and the two summer helpers. For 1971 the amount has yet to be negotiated.

Revenues also will stay the same, about $70,000. There have been no changes and though Brock is angling for two more tenants, he sees no sense putting their rent in the budget until they are in the building.

Basler Lease

The lease with Warren Basler, the fixed base operator, has to be renegotiated in 1971. Basler's private plane business has been hard hit by the economic recession. He says the industry is down 45 per cent.

The manager would like to see a minimal rent plus percentage of business contract, approval to relocate the electronic landing system.

Voter Count 126 Less In Neenah

NEENAH — The number of registered voters has decreased by 126 since the April election according to the final tabulation for the upcoming primary election.

According to the latest count there are 8,796 voters eligible to cast ballots in the primary. This compares to 8,922 registered in April.

The only wards marking small increases in registered voters were the first, three; sixth, six; and ninth, three.

The second ward dropped 11 voters; third, seven; fourth, 11; fifth, four; seventh, 14; eighth, one; and tenth, 90.

The only wards with more than 1,000 voters are the first with 1,012; sixth, 1,374; and ninth, 1,496.

Elephants Enjoy Few Minutes of Freedom

DALTON, Ill. (AP)—Three elephants were chained at the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad station Tuesday after an accident which gave them a few minutes' freedom.

Police just east of St. Louis said a truck driver for the King Bros. Circus drove his vehicle under a low clearance bridge Monday night, the back door flew open and out went the elephants.

The trainer shouted whatever command one gives fleeing elephants and their freedom was over.

Action had been held up pending runway extension, but that has been turned down. The estimated $120,000 cost will be borne entirely by the Federal Aeronautics Administration, Brock said.

DNR Clarifies Aid Requirements

BY DAVE JENKINS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH-MENASHA — The degree of regional cooperation which will qualify the twin cities to obtain federal and state aids for improving sewage treatment facilities has been clarified by an official of the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

According to Duane W. Hinderman, chief of the grant-in-aid section of DNR's Division of Environmental Protection, there are no requirements that a municipality belong to any planning agency to get grants-in-aid.

Nor are there any requirements for a regional type agency to "finance, construct, own operate and maintain single or several waste treatment plants for a region" in order to qualify for aid.

Regional Plan

What is required is that every grant applicant "must have the comments of all planning agencies for the regional area and the proposed project must be part of the regional plan for the treatment of wastes for the area."

Hinderman stated in a letter this week to Ronald St. Laurent, engineer-manager of the Neenah-Menasha treatment plant.

The clarification arose out of discussion between St. Laurent and Hinderman over the Sewerage Commission's preliminary application for aid for the $15.5 million plant expansion.

The Neenah-Menasha expansion has been endorsed by the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) and the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, the two regional planning agencies in the area. COG has also approved the concept of four treatment plants for all the sewage from Kaukauna to Neenah, of which the Neenah-Menasha plant is one.

In St. Laurent's view all the regional planning requirements for getting aid for the twin city project, as set forth in Hinderman's letter, have been met.

Sewerage Commission President Gilbert Krueger and Menasha Mayor James Adams in the past have indicated opposition to a COG proposal for a regional agency to finance and operate the four-plant system. They would like to retain control in the hands of the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Commission instead.

Hinderman's letter would appear to indicate that they would not endanger their qualification for outside aid by such a stance.

COG's policy committee is scheduled to take up the matter of a regional agency to run the four-plant system Wednesday.

Hearing Set for Youth Arrested In LSD Sale

NEENAH — Winnebago County Juvenile Judge James G. Sarres Thursday set a hearing for Sept. 18 on waiving a 16-year-old Neenah boy, arrested in connection with the sale of LSD, to adult court.

The youth, charged with aiding and abetting the sale of LSD stemming from an incident on Aug. 14, appeared before Judge Sarres Thursday.

A 17-year-old boy, arrested on similar charges, filed an affidavit of prejudice against Judge Sarres and the court commissioner will be asked to appoint another judge to hear the case.

School, Motel Help Double 1970 Neenah Building Pace

NEENAH — Bolstered by the Ramada Inn and start of construction on Armstrong High School, the 1970 building pace is galloping along at more than twice the pace for the same eight months a year ago.

According to the August building report compiled by the city building inspector's office, total permits issued for 1970 total $7.3 million compared to $3.4 million for the same period a year ago.

Home Starts Off

The number of new home starts is off a quarter from a year ago with 70 new homes in 1970 compared to 96 in 1969.

During August of this year building permits totaled $245,749 which is up from the $206,225 a year ago.

New building, which is usually considered one of the prime barometers for community growth, is way up. The only sad thing, however, is the high school will be a nontaxable item and will not bolster the tax rolls.

But even without the high school the building pace is about a half million dollars over the same period a year ago. All but about $117,600 for a new church of the hike will go on the tax rolls and will bring money into the city coffers.

According to Earl Page, city assessor, 34 of the 70 new home starts are for the federally subsidized housing. This is about the same pace as a year ago when more than half the new home starts were in the federal category.

Woehler Rejects Open-Door Policy

Outagamie County's "moratorium" on closed door meetings lasted one day.

It ended Friday afternoon in the office of County Administrator Alvin E. Woehler.

As an aftermath of debate that resulted from executive (closed) meetings held in past weeks by the county's Board of Social Services, Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt told the Executive Committee Thursday that secret sessions should be "reserved for only very serious situations."

And he was quick to add that in his 17 years on the County Board, he had rarely seen such an emergency situation.

Ten members of the Executive Committee heard DeLaHunt suggest that the press be allowed to stay in committee meetings and then use its own discretion on what it publishes.

Woehler was sitting next to DeLaHunt at the Executive Committee meeting when the suggestion was made. There was no discussion, nor was there an objection raised.

Failed to Post

The board's Personnel Committee, headed by Supv. Marvin Babbitt of Seymour, met Friday afternoon in Woehler's office. As in the past, the committee failed to post a notice of the meeting in the county clerk's office. Other board committees instituted a policy of posting meeting notices several months ago.

Before the meeting started, Woehler told two reporters, Bill Knutson of The Post-Crescent and James Bethke of radio station WBBY, that he disagreed with DeLaHunt's views on allowing press coverage of committee meetings.

Woehler was particularly adamant in his stand on coverage of Personnel Committee sessions, which he said must often be closed to allow for "a full and open discussion."

Although Woehler and Babbitt stated that Friday's meeting

was called solely to discuss labor negotiations with Outagamie County Hospital personnel, it was soon learned that Sheriff Calvin L. Spive had submitted a letter to the committee in which he had requested more help in his department.

Woehler held that while the reporters could hear the letter read, they could not sit in on the discussion on hiring more help because that discussion might involve personalities in the sheriff's department.

"Half the Trouble"

When told that reporters are allowed to remain in Courts and Justice Committee meetings while department policies and personnel are being discussed, Woehler replied, "that's half the trouble with that committee."

Bethke informed Woehler that reporters are allowed to be present most of the time when Appleton City Council committees discuss personnel and related items, and Bethke contended that the arrangement had not caused problems.

"I thought this whole thing was settled Thursday," Bethke told Woehler, referring to DeLaHunt's statement to the Executive Committee.

Bethke reminded Woehler that he had raised no objections at the Executive Committee meeting.

At one point during a sometimes heated exchange that involved the two reporters, Woehler and Babbitt, Woehler remarked, "You'll be hearing more from the administrator."

Although the intent of his remark was unclear to reporters, he had earlier made reference to DeLaHunt's questioning of Woehler's power to appoint a new corporation counsel to replace Frank Templeton, who resigned as of Oct. 1. The county has asked for a legal opinion on the matter from the state attorney general's office.

"Uncompromising"

Woehler indicated he was "uncompromising" in his views

on open and closed meetings.

DeLaHunt was not at the Personnel Committee session, nor was he available for comment afterward.

Two other Personnel Committee members, George Kroes of the Town of Vanden Broek and Sylvester Lenz of Kimberly, remained silent during Friday's pre-meeting discussion.

After the meeting started, Woehler read Spive's letter requesting more manpower and the committee set Sept. 15 for a meeting to discuss the requests with him.

Babbitt then told the two reporters they would have to leave because the committee was about to discuss hospital union negotiations.

A reporter informed Babbitt that there was a proper method of entering into executive session. A motion then was made and seconded, a vote was taken and a statement was made as to why the closed session was being called.

Kaukauna's Law on Vigil Ruled Invalid

A U. S. District Court judge has declared unconstitutional two sections of the City of Kaukauna ordinances which last New Year's Eve figured in a highly publicized peace vigil in that city.

The group, calling itself the "Committee for Peace," had applied for a permit according to law and been granted it by Police Chief William Nagel. Just before the demonstration took place, members of the group were informed that the permit as granted did not allow for the vigil to be held for the length of time or in the places that had been sought.

The vigil, on the sidewalk in front of the high school, was held in spite of the later ruling. The groups steering committee said it would disregard the pronouncement because it considered the ordinance involved to be overboard in that they allowed for "arbitrary interpretation by city officials."

These included walking on portions of the sidewalk not listed in the permit and continuing the vigil beyond the 10 p.m. time set by the police chief.

There were no incidents or arrests.

Judge Myron Gordon of Milwaukee ruled that one of the particular ordinances in question is "overbroad on its face, and that the quoted ordinances impinge excessively on the constitutionally protected right of assembly."

He said the ordinances leave "excessive latitude for arbitrary enforcement. Under the terms of these ordinances, one who wanted to meet with five other persons in a public park to hold an orderly demonstration could be denied permission to do so."

"Frankly," Kaukauna Mayor

Gilbert Anderson said this morning, "this didn't come as any great surprise to me." He noted that there are many such ordinances throughout the state that could probably come under the same terms.

City Atty. Donald Green speculated this morning that "regarding parades and demonstrations, the ordinances will be studied with the thought of possible revision."

The American Civil Liberties Union took on the case after it was filed in District Court in Milwaukee.

Brown County Home Burned

Firemen Unable To Save House About Midnight

The home of a rural Brown County man was gutted by fire early today by a blaze which apparently started near a down stairs stove.

Assistant Fire Chief Lloyd Hughes of the Town of Lawrence Fire Department described the home of Victor Frelich, route 1, West De Pere, as a "total loss."

He said the department found the structure engulfed in flames when it arrived shortly after midnight. The alarm was turned into them by the Freedom Fire Department in Outagamie County.

He said, mistakenly called by a neighbor of Frelich's.

The Lawrence units reported remained at the scene until about 5:30 a.m. today. They were assisted by fire fighters from the Freedom fire department.

Another Place to Gather? Youths 'Rap' Over Planters

Asking, "Where are we going to go?" a group of nearly 50 young people held a "rap session in City Park Friday night with two adult civilians and a police officer, to discuss long-hairs loitering around College Avenue planters.

The young people aired a host of grievances ranging from accusations of police harassment to complaints about closed-mindedness of the older generation, and agreed to get together for another session at the park, hopefully with Mayor George Buckley.

One suggestion that came from the meeting was for the city to sanction a gathering place where young people could have soft drink and cigarette dispensers and space to sit and talk or listen to music. The youths offered to run the place themselves, but agreed to accept adult supervision.

Key adults in the gathering were Pete Bishop and Nick Roth, who have had numerous contacts with local young people through various civic activities. They said they have helped youths in trouble with police or having drug problems, and were asked by a spokesman for the young people to meet them in the park at 8 p.m.

Round up Others

When they arrived, there were a half-dozen young men in the park. After talking briefly with Bishop and Roth, some of the youths headed for College Avenue and returned with a number of others. At its peak, the group numbered 46 young people.

Bishop left to contact police after the youths had aired their grievances. On Bishop's request, veteran Patrolman Bernard Kabat came to the park to answer questions. From the topic of the much-publicized downtown loitering, centering around the planters in front of the H. C. Prange Co. department store, the discussion ranged to the young people's views on war, nudity and rock festivals.

"We don't have any solutions," said one youth. "Well, neither do they," meaning the police. "They say, 'get out of here,' but where are we going to go?"

Grand Chute Board Rejects Rubbish Pickup - For Now

GRAND CHUTE — The Town Board decided this week not to contract directly with a private hauler for rubbish pickup in the town because it believed it was "too early" to go against an April referendum in which the electorate turned down that service by a narrow margin.

But at the same time, the board left the door open for possible hauling by the town itself.

Henry Kuhn, a private hauler from Little Chute inquired at the Town Board's meeting this week about contracting directly with the town for rubbish pickup, which would start about Oct. 1.

Hauler Turned Down

The board told him to advertise and solicit for customers on his own because it was too soon to go against the electorate's April decision. The vote then was 169 to 131 in the first precinct and 154 to 153 in the second precinct against rubbish pickup.

Kuhn was prepared to offer his services for $1.75 per month per customer.

Ira Livingston, town chairman, said that there was possibility that the town might buy a garbage truck and go into business itself at a later date.

Monopoly Feared

James Meade, town parks director, believed the current system of having different haulers provide service to the community was better than authorizing one firm for the job. He feared a monopoly and consequent increased prices and poor service.

"I think it's nice with competition," he said.

Two other firms currently furnish the community with garbage pickup.

Gerald Meyer, operator of the Outagamie Speedway, received permission from the board to hold races at the track the next two Sundays. Meyer and the town have received complaints from neighbors about wrecked autos being left at the track.

Meyer said he has worked out an arrangement with an individual who would haul the cars away.

Mrs. Roger Du Frane, 3405 W. Florida Ave., appeared before the board and registered a complaint about ditching that the town is performing in her neighborhood. She feared that her children might fall into the ditches and become hurt or drown.

She was told by town supervisors Edward Ziegler and Bernard Tillman that the project was being done to speed up the flow of water which ordinarily would remain standing after heavy rains. She protested that the water never gathered on her lot and that the ditch and ties, the town and Heibel, were flowage would create a hazard to her children.

Livingston, who said he had assumed that developers themselves opposed the project when it was first proposed but approved it in the subdivision control ordinance, because "it was what the people wanted," suggested that further value of the playground area — action on the ditch and some 2 1/2 acres — that Heibel has set aside in his development is sufficient to cover the $200 per lot for his 18 lots. Heibel would have nothing to worry about.

with Mrs. Du Frane to inquire about the project.

Le Roy Heibel, 305 W. Edgewood Drive, developer of Edgewood Heights subdivision on County JJ, appealed to the board for a variance of the town's subdivision control ordinance.

Heibel claimed that when he started his development, the town failed to notify him of a clause in the ordinance which states that developers must pay $200 per lot to the town in lieu of dedicating land in the subdivision to park space. Because the development has progressed to its present stage, Heibel felt the town's recent notification of the $200 tag per lot is "after the fact."

Developer Angered

He added, "I'm being penalized for developing land in Grand Chute." He said he was mad because the clause was brought to his attention after he had received preliminary approval from the town for his subdivision.

Livingston agreed the town had failed to notify Heibel of the clause. He said that both parties and the town and Heibel, were brought to his attention after he had received preliminary approval from the town for his subdivision.

Clark pointed out that it is the town's responsibility to enforce the ordinance. He said that if the town had enforced the ordinance, Heibel would not have set aside the land for a playground.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hooft, lot for his 18 lots. Heibel would have nothing to worry about.

close to record shops, a soda fountain and the "head shop," a downtown shop selling posters, beads, clothing and other artifacts.

Refuse to Listen

Among their grievances, the young people complained that some police officers harass them downtown and police superiors refuse to listen when young people complain at the police station.

One youth said he had been called "a blight on society" by one young patrolman. Another said as he and a girl friend were leaving the Prange corner, an officer told them, "Why don't you just keep walking down to 41 and start hitch hiking?" said the youth.

"It's like a Western, you know? Like, get out of town before sundown."

On the other hand, they mentioned one officer whom they characterized as "a nice guy," but they said he has been reprimanded after "old ladies call the police station and complain because he's talking to us."

"Some cops are nice, but you get the few that wreck it for the many," said one youth. They also blamed "the few" among themselves — "the hard guys, the greasers, the dirt balls" — for annoying shoppers and triggering the planter controversy.

Failing to muster a majority in favor of removing the planters as merchants have requested, the City Council this week was told that a stiffer anti-loitering ordinance would be ready for consideration shortly.

Judged by Looks

The youths claimed that adults judge them by their appearance, regardless of their behavior. Bishop told them at one point that some older people are afraid of them because of their looks.

Admitting they block the Prange's sidewalk, the young people said shoppers "once in a while hear bad language" but worse language can be heard in any College Avenue barroom, they argued.

But they denied they ever

"trip any old ladies and spit on them," and they scoffed at reports cited by Kabat of heavy drug traffic on the controversial corner.

Kabat told them, "The thing that we have to go by is the law," and blocking the sidewalk is against the law. He told them that harassment by police officers should be reported, adding, "If I did something like that I'd be hung tomorrow." He agreed an alternate gathering place would be welcomed by authorities as well as by the young people.

Not "Our Type"

Kabat asked why they don't attend Community Activities Center functions and was told the young people who attend aren't "our type." They complained of fights and drinking among students attending CAC activities.

Bishop suggested sending a spokesman to Buckley, but when the notion met with little enthusiasm he offered to bring the mayor to a future gathering. Bishop and Kabat also suggested talking with Det. George Weaver, whom Kabat praised as "the finest juvenile officer we've ever had around here."

The adults warned that a long, involved process will face the youths in winning City Council approval of a new gathering place. As a start, Bishop told them he was sure Mayor Buckley would listen to them. "He'll give you answers. He's a servant," said Bishop. "The mayor has listened, and, by God, he's done things for these kids," he declared.

15 Pct. More Sales Tax Income Tops Expectations

MADISON (AP) — State sales tax revenue has failed to meet the expectations, increased and expanded full cost of state services.

in a controversial move by the legislature a year ago, produced about 15 per cent more revenue than in their initial fiscal trial than had been expected.

James R. Morgan, secretary of revenue, disclosed Friday that the 4 per cent levy ended its fiscal year June 30 with $272.5 million in revenue, or about $34.9 million more than had been forecast in May, 1969.

The legislature's Democratic minority had balked at endorsing the Republican-controlled legislature's decision to raise sales taxes rather than increase state income and corporation taxes.

The increase from 3 per cent to 4 per cent also included an expansion of the taxable list so that many traditionally tax-free items on grocery shelves suddenly joined the levy roster.

Morgan said personal income taxes were $28 million greater than in the 1968-69 period, an increase of about 6 per cent but about $20 million less than had been estimated.

Total state tax collections increased $19.5 million over the estimates for the 1969-70 fiscal period, which represents the first half of a two-year state budget.

Total revenue collected in the 1969-70 fiscal period was $1.1 billion, including about $388 million which is being returned to local governments in the form of shared taxes and property tax relief.

Democrats declared more than a year ago that, because of the decision of the Republican-dominated legislature, they would make taxes a big campaign issue in 1970.

They were following the promise Friday.

Shirley Walker, seeking the Democratic nomination for state treasurer in Tuesday's primary, demanded abolition of the sales tax.

In a statement Friday, the West Allis housewife and actress said the "sales tax has hit hard at those least able to pay. We must work to abolish the sales tax, and tax people on their ability to pay."

"If we elect Republicans to our state and legislative offices, we will see taxes like we never have seen before," Mrs. Walker said.

Charge by Lucey

Patrick J. Lucey, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, accused Republicans of shifting financial burdens onto city and county taxpayers.

Speaking to a labor union meeting in Eau Claire, Lucey said "the Republican administration has failed to meet the expectations, increased and expanded full cost of state services."

"As a result, these costs have been shifted to the local communities which are forced to rely on the property tax," Lucey said.

Wisconsin property taxes have increased about 10 per cent in the last year, he said.

Morgan said the state's estimate of sales tax income fell short because of his department's "lack of experience" with the legislature's new style of general sales tax.

The 6 per cent increase in income tax revenue is lower than in previous years. The increase was 13 per cent and 10.5 per cent in two previous fiscal years.
